OUR LINES OF STEEL

PROJECTED BY COLE AND GORDON.

Colonel Cole Closing All His Contracts for Supplies for His New Enterprise—The Company Backing Him—General Gordon's Flush of Railroad Triumph.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

NEW YORK, May 17.—The syndicate now backing Colonel Cole is composed largely of the same men who subscribed thirty million dollars to build the new line from New York to Chicago. They have been in consultation all day, closing the various construction contracts, and finishing the details of the new Georgia railroad schemes.

Colonel Cole leaves for Atlanta on Wednesday night, when the work will be started.

Colonel Maddox and ex-Mayor Calhoun are due here this morning from Atlanta, when the actual transfer will be made of the deeds and charter of the Georgia Western railroad to General Gordon.

General Gordon leaves for Atlanta next week, and promises rapid work on the Georgia Western.

Our roads are coming at last, and they are coming with a whoop.

President Phinizy, of the Georgia railroad, is here.

He will have the stock of his road on the exchange list in less than two weeks. The governing committee of the New York stock board has approved it.

President Wadley, of the Central railroad, is here, and is said to be arranging to divide the Ocean steamship company's stock, about $4,000,000, to the Central stockholders. This will be 60 per cent stock divide.

A difficulty is said to be found in the terms in the lease of the Southwestern railroad which provides that whenever the Central road divides the stock, the accumulation or assets to its own stockholders, it shall divide the same to the Southwestern stockholders in the proportion of 8 to 10. This makes about twelve million dollars instead of seven million dollars to divide the Ocean steamship stock between. If this difficulty can be evaded, the stock dividend is said to be sure.

I went to see George Alfred Townsend to-night. He said, "I sum up Conkling's attitude as that of a prisoner to be hung in the morning, but who commits suicide the night before. His only hope is that if he didn't cut his throat deep enough to kill him he would catch some sympathy on execution day."

NASHVILLE IN FLAMES.

The Rock City Suffers its Severest Calamity.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

NASHVILLE, May 17.—The fire this morning was the most destructive that has occurred in Nashville for many years Commencing in the oil and paint establishment of Warren Bros, corner of Warren and Church streets, it spread rapidly north, east and west till thirty-four buildings were consumed. The new marble front Noel block, on Church street, of eight three story buildings, including the beautiful new office of the Western Union telegraph company, with all its valuable equipments, is in ruins. The fire in this direction west struck across an alley destroying two old buildings occupied as restaurants and club rooms, and with great difficulty the Maxwell house and intervening block were saved. On the opposite side of the same street the wholesale liquor houses of Ryan & Ryan and Pierce, Hopkins & Lawrence, adjoining the American office, were destroyed, together with the small intervening buildings The roof and cornice of the American building were partially burned, but the main damage to this building and its contents was from water on the machinery, paper and newspaper files. Sweeping east along Church street, the fire destroyed Dickens's wholesale liquor house and the warehouse of Cherry, O Conner & Co., and some smaller buildings Moving north along College street, the furniture houses of Philip Schneider and Atwell & Snood, and a mattress and china store, adjoining the buildings on the west side of College street occupied as a storage room by Weekly & Farren, and several smaller buildings, were destroyed. The estimated loss is near a half million dollars. The insurance does not exceed $200 000

By Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, May 17.—Shortly after seven o'clock, last night, Messrs. James Martin and Charles Leach discovered a fire in what has been known as Warren & Moore's planing mills, but which was occupied by Robert Lowery as a planing mill and turning factory, on South High street. They attached a hose to a hydrant, and could have extinguished the fire but for the fact that the stream was so weak that it would not run more than two feet out of the nozzle, and, of course, they could accomplish but little good with it. The flames spread so rapidly that they had to abandon any attempt to suppress them. The mill was soon in a blaze from top to bottom, and was a total loss, in spite of the vigorous efforts of the fire department. The loss on the buildings and the machinery belonging to Warren & Moore is estimated at $5,000 with no insurance.

During the fire the rear window of the Church of the Advent was ignited, and between fire and water was broken. It was the memorial window to the late Bishop Otey, for the purchase of which Bishop Quintard raised a subscription of $1,000 while the Church of the Advent was in course of erection.

The residence on the southeastern corner of High and Cumberland alley, and the double brick residence on the corner of High and the alley, between Cumberland alley and Broad street, were ignited, but the flames were extinguished before any serious damage was done.

CINCINNATI, May 17.—A great fire is reported raging at Nashville, Tennessee. No definite information concerning it has yet been received, but it is rumored that four squares are at the mercy of the flames.

MEMPHIS, May 17.—The fire at Nashville this morning burned the Noel building, including the Western Union telegraph office. Communication with that city is interrupted.

The fire is now reported to be beyond control of the fire department, and now includes four squares, with the Noel block as the center.

CINCINNATI, May 17.—There is no wire from here to Nashville. Louisville has a wire. The Maxwell house, American newspaper office and the Western Union telegraph office are burned. The mayor of Nashville has telegraphed Louisville that there is danger of the whole city burning. Louisville is sending fire engines. No further particulars are obtainable just now.

MEMPHIS, May 17.—The manager of the Memphis telegraph office has been instructed to send all spare instruments and supplies by the first train to Nashville, as the office there has lost everything.

CINCINNATI, May 17.—Private advices from Nashville say a fire has been raging since 2 o'clock this morning The reports are of the most sensational character and lack definiteness.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 17.—A fire causing the loss of $500,000 occurred here at 10 o'clock this morning, taking in the Western Union telegraph office, in the Noel block, among the first buildings destroyed, and cutting off all communication by wire. The fire commenced in Warren Brothers' paint house, igniting and consuming Phillip Schneider's furniture store; Atwell & Sneed, furniture; H. Miller, mattresses; P. Blumenthal, china ware; the Noel block, northeast corner of Church and College streets, valued at $70,000; the American office, partially burned; Cheatham & Pearce, whisky house; Ryan & Ryan, whisky house; the penitentiary ware rooms; George A. Dickel, whisky house; M. S. Hyar, rag house, and a large number of smaller buildings, including one-half of each of four squares.

Storm in Kansas.

JUNCTION CITY, May 17.—A severe thunder storm visited this vicinity, yesterday, doing considerable damage to crops. In Lyons, Davis county, Miss Bertie Drawance, aged 15, was killed by lightning. Four bridges on the Missouri Pacific between Camden and White City, were washed away by freshets. The eastern train on this road did not leave Junction City this morning, but is still here.

STATE-HOUSE GLEANINGS.

THE governor returned from a five-hours trip to Alabama yesterday.

THE cotton seed have all been planted in the experimental plat.

SOME cotton plants from the exposition grounds can be seen at the department of agricuture.

IT is possible that the governor will not be well enough to go to Nashville on the 22d.

THE new safe in the treasurer's office is much admired.

FORTY handsome new pictures of fish and game have been received at the department of agriculture and will be put up at once.

HIS COMMISSION

WILL BE TO FIGHT THE PRESIDENT.

The Ex-Senator Declares His Policy to Come Back to the Senate as the Authorized Opponent of the Administration—A War to the End of the Term.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The resignations of Conkling and Platt are all the talk everywhere. Senator Conkling declined to talk with reporters, saying he had expressed himself freely in his letter to the governor of New York, but trusted friends of Conkling called on him at his rooms and he talked freely to them. He was severe in his strictures upon the administration, and denounced Robertson as a traitor to his party. He went over all of Robertson's conduct in connection with the Chicago convention, and said that he would never support a man who had bolted and fought against his party organization as Robertson did then. Conkling expressed to his friends entire confidence of the re-election of both Platt and himself by the New York legislature at the time when under the constitution the election can take place. Conkling produced a list of the members of the legislature and the classification of their politics, to show that his re-election is certain, and also Platt's, and said that he would not go nearer Albany than New York city; and that he will be re-elected without asking for it. He spoke in bitter terms of the president, charging him with having violated his honor. Conkling said he would regard his re-election as an indorsement of his fight against Robertson and a rebuke to the administration, but that what is more important, his re-election, will be a commission to him as an independent anti-administration senator; that he appeals to his party representatives on the issue between him and the administration, and a re-election will authorize him to fight the administration to the end of its term, and strike in a blow wherever he can get a chance. He declared his purpose to make war on the administration from the date of his re-election. He expressed the belief that the senate will remain in session until he comes back. A friend remarked that the senate would adjourn this week. Conkling said that he thought not; that the democrats were now in the majority and would be shrewd enough to continue the session to give a chance to open his aggressive war against the president. Walking up and down the room Conkling spoke of the president as another Hayes, said the republican party was disgusted with this sort of president; that the continuation of Garfield in his treachery towards republicans, would make the party solid for a stalwart like Grant, and would result in the next presidential convention nominating Grant or some man like him, who, as Conkling says, can always be found when wanted by the republican party on all occasions. Conkling made the third term quite prominent in talking with his friends, and spoke of his fight as the beginning of the contest for the defeat in 1884 of Garfield, and the nomination of some determined stalwart. Conkling referred with some bitterness to the action of the republican senators in not standing by him. For more than three hours Conkling remained in his rooms, receiving and talking with friends who called.

The president, when spoken to about the matter, said that he was advised of the intention to resign and was prepared for it. He said that Conkling's action did not in the least disconcert the administration; that the sun will rise and set the same as when Conkling was a member of the senate.

——In Senator Conkling's recent letter he makes the following statement:

Mr. Fish, son of the former distinguished secretary of state, had, in deference to an ancient practice, placed his position at the disposal of the new administration, but was ready to remain at his post if he desired to do so.

Inquiry to-day at the diplomatic bureau of the state department revealed the following facts in the case of Mr. Nicholas Fish, late minister to Switzerland: On the 13th of February, 1881, he wrote Secretary Evarts that he must decline to remain longer at his post and enclosed his resignation. On the 7th of March Mr. Fish addressed a letter to Secretary Blaine asking to be relieved from duty. The resignation was accepted and a note of acknowledgment for faithful duty was sent to Mr. Fish by Secretary Blaine. Learning a short time afterward that while Mr. Fish was unwilling to stay in Switzerland he might possibly desire to still remain in diplomatic service, Secretary Blaine telegraphed him April 4th asking him if it would be agreeable to him to go to Denmark, General Badeau having declined that mission. Mr. Fish replied by cable declining Denmark for the reason that he desired promotion. In reference to Mr. Cramer's appointment as Mr. Fish's successor in the Swiss mission, it is learned that this was done in answer to a personal request of General Grant, who asked that his brother-in-law might be sent to a more southerly climate, his long residence at Copenhagen interfering with his health.

Discussed by the Press.

NEW YORK, May 17.—The Sun says: "The resignation of the two New York senators is a highly sensational proceeding. The only argument that can be presented to justify such a manifestation is that under the circumstances it becomes proper for them to return their trusts to the legislature in order that their policy may be accepted or condemned by that body. It is a novel as well as a far reaching complication which Conkling has now added to the serious difficulties of the republican situation, and all intelligent citizens will wait with unaffected interest to see how it comes out."

The Stadts Zeitung does not consider their probable re-election by the legislature as a vindication for Conkling. In order to have his course vindicated it would have been necessary for Mr. Conkling to postpone his resignation until after the legislature has adjourned sine die, and then go before the people at the next election of members of the assembly.

The Journal of Commerce says: "We regret that a large and respectable portion of the republican party refuse to support the president of their choice, and are not only attacking him in the journals that contributed to his election, but are seeking in every possible way to coerce him into managing public affairs for the benefit of a clique of politicians. We trust that honest and patriotic men who are not slaves of the party will refuse to lend themselves to such a disgraceful assault on the chief magistrate of the nation. Those who are opposing him are not acting in behalf of the country, but for the interests of a section of his late adherents that rebel against his authority because they can't control him as they desire."

The Herald says: "Affairs in Washington have taken a sudden and dramatic turn. Lord Beaconsfield was accustomed to say that nothing happened but the unexpected. Nothing could be more unexpected than the resignation of Mr. Conkling and Mr. Platt from the senate. Such a step could only be taken under a strong sense of duty, and can only be so considered. It does not belong to the mere cunning and waywardness of politics. Men like Conkling and Platt would not take the supreme step of retiring from the senate unless it was intended to give the act the gravest possible meaning. The truth is, that from the beginning Mr. Garfield has committed himself irrevocably to Blaine, and in his dealings with Conkling and Platt and their followers has followed the policy of duplicity. This is a severe judgment to pass upon one holding the august position of president of the United States, and we write it with pain, but it is the truth, and the best friends of Garfield are those who tell him the truth. Mr. Conkling resigns from the senate in the interests of peace In the interest of peace let Blaine retire from the state department. He is not suited for the office, has neither the training nor the experience to manage our foreign affairs. The other members of the cabinet are men without special value or force, and if they want places they should be quartered in some easy department. Let the president call to his foreign office a statesman like Hamilton Fish and to other great offices men like Edmunds' Sherman, Boutwell, Hoar, Frelinghuysen, Washburne—men of patriotism and character who would serve him not for ambition and revenge but for the best interests of the party and the nation."

The Tribune captions its editorial "A Theatrical Exile," and says: "Of course no one takes his resignation. Neither Conkling nor Platt has any idea of leaving the senate. There is a character in a French comedy who is forever quarreling with his mistress and quitting the house in a rage but he always leaves his umbrella behind him as a pretext of returning and the means of returning. It is safe to say that neither of our senators has given up the lease of his lodgings. The farce at Washington will be completed by a farce at Albany and they will have whatever glory they can get out of the theatrical performance."

CHICAGO, May 17.—The Tribune, republican says: "After six weeks of vain endeavor to bully and beg the republicans of the senate to aid him in defeating the nomination of Robertson, Conkling now threatens the republican party of the country with defeat. His resignation is a demand that the republicans of the New York legislature shall re-elect him that he may return to the senate to defy and embarrass the republican president and the republican senate. He notifies the legislature that unless re-elected he will divide the party in New York, and thus divide and defeat it in the country. Will his re-election keep the party united in New York or in the country? Will the American people tolerate the insolence and usurpation of this man any longer? Will not his support and friendship be fatal to any candidate he may favor hereafter? Does he want to be recognized before the country other than as an open and declared enemy of the republican party? Is that not his future mission, and is not that the particular mission to which his tastes and abilities are best adapted. Accepting Conkling, therefore, in his own selected position as the determined enemy of the republican party, engaged henceforth in dividing and defeating that party, why should the republicans of the New York legislature re-elect him to an office which he has never used except to gratify the malignant hatred engendered by his own insatiable vanity. The New York legislature may accept the command of Roscoe Conkling, but the republicans of the great republican states of the country will be no party to this slavish proceeding. They accept his challenge. They will purchase no peace with him. They will be brave, and defy his threats and his warfare. They are not disappointed in him. His enmity to the party can work it no harm save to the extent that it is tolerated in the party. The best of all methods to retain peace, harmony and union in the republican party of the nation is to make Conkling's resignation a finality by the election of a republican to the senate as his successor.

The Inter Ocean, republican, says: There are two men in the country at least to whom self-respect is more than office; two men who will not sit silently by and see their state antagonized, the enemies of their party rewarded and continue to retain their seats in a body which accepts and swallows the enforced dignity. Nothing remains for the senate to do but to separate whatever else may have happened or have been left undone. A victory has been gained, for Conkling is out of the way and will not plague the administration, so let caps go up. The democratic party tally one in their contest. Senator Conkling and his colleague have exercised an undoubted privilege and taken a manly course, and have done that which few public men would dare to do in the face of an angry and powerful executive."

MILWAUKEE, May 17.—The Republican says: "We suppose that Conkling has reason to feel certain of his re-election, or he would not have resigned. We are confident that if he counts upon returning to the senate with greatly increased prestige by reason of a re election at the hands of a legislature that was elected last year, he will find that he has greatly mistaken the temper of the people."

The Sentinel says: "The really hopeful feature of affairs is that Conkling in his manifesto comes out as the champion of civil service reform. Everything he said on the subject of Merritt's removal, viewed from the standpoint of public interest, is true. The Sentinel has more than once pointed out that there was no defense whatever for this summary discharge of a faithful official. There are a great many queer things in politics, but it is hard to recall a queerer development than James A. Garfield's removing a faithful public servant to make room for a personal favorite, and Roscoe Conkling's appealing to the country against changes on civil service reform grounds."

INDIANAPOLIS, May 17—The Journal says: "Senators Conkling and Platt have not resigned out of pique nor for nothing. Garfield succeeded to the presidency by means of the vote of New York. Surely it can't be said Conkling contributed nothing to the republican success in that state, and the nation. The appointment of Judge Robertson was not the recognition of the Blaine party in New York or of the independents, or anybody else. It was solely and purely an attack on Conkling, so conceived, so understood and so expressed by everyone. It is only those who believe that Senator Conkling should be punished for some undefined and undefinable offense, who can by any possibility indorse the action of the president in the matter."

SAN FRANCISCO, May 17.—Of Mr. Conkling's resignation, the Bulletin says: "He wanted to control the appointments, and failing, he retires. He antagonized the administration, and a break was inevitable. The full strength of his case is that Robertson was offensive to him on personal grounds. The better sentiment of the republican party is in favor of giving the president a chance Conkling appears to have sought no other end than to strengthen his own political position and that of his party. While his great ability is acknowledged his retirement can hardly be considered a calamity."

The Alta, after reviewing the history of the fight between the New York senators and the president, says, "It is simply an outgrowth of the vicious spoils system. From a purely unpartizan point of view the contest has no merit, being a struggle for power. There is some justice in the claims of both sides from a republican point of view. The struggle is to be deeply regretted, for much harm and little good can come of it. From a democratic point of view it is a lovely fight, and will galvanize the old democratic skeleton. To a man up a tree it looks like a very unseemly exhibition.

The Post says the resignation will be received with surprise and regret. Conkling made the nomination of Robertson a personal matter and saw he would be defeated and should the legislature re-elect him it would be an indorsement of his opinion.

AUGUSTA, GA., May 17.—The Chronicle says of Conkling's resignation: "He has been an aggressive and malignant enemy of the south, which should rejoice in the triumph of President Garfield and the defeat of Senator Conkling. Southern senators should sustain the president in the full exercise of his constitutional rights. He has pledged himself to a patriotic administration, and the south should sustain him in his efforts to restore peace and brotherhood to all sections of the union."

RICHMOND, Va., May 17.—The Dispatch says: "Conkling deserts his post in the first watch and leaves his faithful soldiers to their fate. Only one does he take with him in his guilty flight—his man Friday—the pretended junior senator from New York, but really the subservient tool of the lordly Roscoe. A beautiful pair of traitors they are. Conkling's resignation is the mad freak of a spoiled demagogue who would ruin his country to spite his enemies."

Personal Opinions

EXPRESSED ON THE CONKLING FREAK

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The president's opinion was that Conkling had found himself too weak to meet the final issue; that he had not found himself so powerful as he supposed, and that in resigning Conkling had avoided a fight he had brought on; that Conkling foresaw everything was going against him, and preferred to temporarily vacate the seat. The president is satisfied with the position he had taken, and that the country is with him. He had only maintained the prerogative of the president which was his under the constitution

Senator Sherman said that Conkling's and Platt's course would not hurt the republican party in New York or anywhere else, but added that Conkling had been a colleague of his and would be again soon, and he would not criticize him. Some of Conkling's friends among the republican senators criticise his action as very unwise, and one senator said it was puerile. Conkling has counted the noses in the New York legislature, and is confident of reelection. One of the coolest senators on the republican side, who is an admirer of Conkling, said to a reporter that republican sentiment condemned Conkling's resignation as childish and trifling; that even Conkling's friends took this view; that if the resignation had been offered upon some great issue it would be sustained, but that to resign because displeased with an appointment, looks like trifling.

Senator Kellogg, who has been counted among Conkling's supporters, spoke of the resignation as unwise and foolish. The opinion, as gathered by a reporter, from republican senators and other prominent members of the party, is adverse to Conkling's action. In counting on the senate continuing in session, Senator Conkling makes a mistake.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Thurlow Weed was surprised at the news. He thought the action of the senators had not improved matters.

John Kelly expressed the following opinion: "The resignation of Senator Conkling will show conclusively his strength in the republican party. I do not believe his and Senator Platt's resignations will be accepted." "If Senator Conkling's resignation be accepted, do you think his power will be injured?" "There have been such cases in the history of American politics, and in which leaders have managed so gain by their own personal influence and prestige the position in the party of which they were deprived. Such were Henry Clay on the whig side, and Silas Wright on the other. What Senator Conkling's chances to do this are I do not know."

A. S. Hewitt said that although he thought it would be good party policy for the democrats to aid in confirming Robertson, he had been inclined to sympathise with Conkling in this matter, simply because he favored anything which seemed like a check on the growing power of the executive. He himself was approached during the last campaign by representatives of a man who offered to give $200,000 to the democratic campaign fund if he was promised the place of secretary of the treasury. The reply given was that the democratic party was not fighting for that sort of thing, but to destroy just such sort of practices. He simply viewed Senator Conkling's position as tending to preserve the balance of power. The president should not make bargains with senators, but in this particular case the bargain was not made and the senator had resigned. The executive power was already greater than was desirable."

General Woodford, United States district attorney, when informed of the resignation of Conkling and Platt, turned pale, then red and finally a hue that was decidedly green. His eyes opened wide, and he stared at the reporter and with an effort and nervous twitching of his fingers inquired in a suppressed tone: "Are you positive? can there be no mistake?" "The news has been confirmed; there is no possibility of a mistake," answered the reporter. "Well," said the general, looking out of the window. "I am surprised." The custom house was invaded for views upon the resignations. Collector Merritt said that he would like to have the report confirmed before expressing any opinion, and when the reporter said the official information had been sent from Washington, said it would be better not to talk on the subject, as he was too much astonished with the news.

B. B. Sherman, president of the Mechanics national bank, was asked what, as a business man and republican, he thought of the news. He replied that he was very much surprised, but he supposed the cause of the resignation was the fact that Garfield had nominated a collector of the port of New York without consulting Mr. Conkling.

"Do you think that the course of the senators is likely to cause any serious detriment to the state of New York or the country?" Mr. Sherman replied with a simple negative. "Do you think the cause suggested was a good reason for the resignation?" "Not for anybody but Conkling," said Mr. Sherman; "he is a high-handed fellow, you know. I am much surprised at what has taken place, though I thought there would be trouble when the president selected Blaine as one of his advisers. Foreigners now don't think much of the republican form of government, and if we go on cutting up in this way, they will have less confidence in it than ever."

A Strange Revelation.

DENVER, May 17.—This morning's Republican contains a long article on the Garfield-Conkling controversy, in which it states the results of interviews between prominent western republicans and Thomas M. Nichol as to the make up of the cabinet. It is stated that from the hour of Garfield's election it was determined to ignore the Grant and Conkling followers. Soon after the election, Governor Foster, of Ohio, wrote a letter to Whitelaw Reid, of the New York Tribune, in which he stated that Garfield desired the New York legislature organized against Conkling, and that an anti-Conkling man be sent to the senate; that Mr. Reid's double-leaded editorial in the New York Tribune, prior to the counting of the electoral votes simply foreshadowed the anti-Conkling policy and resulted from an interview had between Garfield and Reid on the occasion of Garfield's first visit to Washington after his election. The Republican's informant, as early as January, was assured that no friend of Grant or Conkling would go into the cabinet, and a telegram was sent to a cabinet aspirant informing him that friendship toward Grant would be fatal to his appointment.

A Probable Hitch.

NEW YORK, May 17.—An Albany special to the Express says it is believed by some state senators that the statutes do not give the legislature power to fill expirations or vacancies for the office of United States senator except on the second Tuesday after the meeting of the legislature. The statute certainly runs this way, and it is interpreted to mean that the successors of two senators cannot be appointed until the 10th day of January, 1882.

The Post special says that word comes this morning from several counties that public meetings have been called to sustain the president.

An Indorsement and a Black Eye.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 17.—The republican general committee to-night elected officers, choosing Hon. Andrew S. Draper as president. Resolutions indorsing the action of Messrs. Conkling and Platt were unanimously adopted, and copies ordered to be sent to President Garfield.

It is supposed to-night that Assemblymen Congdon, Sheldon and Fenner have come out against Conkling.

Will Roscoe Slip Up?

ALBANY, N. Y., May 17.—The opinion is growing that the senate will refuse to go into an election of United States senators and will leave the choice to the next legislature. Some of the senators say they think the question as to whether the resigning senators should be returned and their conduct approved is one that the people should have the opportunity to pass upon.

A Crumb of Comfort.

BUFFALO, May 17.—The Commercial Advertiser states upon authority that Hon. Richard Crowley will not, under any circumstances, be a candidate for United States senator, and thinks that under the circumstances both Messrs. Conkling and Platt should be unanimously elected by the republican legislature of New York.

One Hundred Guns.

HUDSON, N. Y., May 17.—The friends of the administration here fired one hundred guns at noon to-day. Petitions are in circulation against the re-election of Messrs. Conkling and Platt.

A Lynching Postponed.

DETROIT, May 17.—A crowd of farmers, numbering 250, went Saturday night from the neighborhood in Ottawa county, this state, where Cody, the young farmer, was recently killed by his hired man, a German tramp, to the county jail at Grand Haven, with the avowed determination of lynching the murderer. They reached town about midnight, but the sheriff had been forewarned, and had summoned a strong posse, besides the local military company, to the defense of the jail. The prosecuting attorney shrewdly invited the citizens to send a committee of their number to inspect the jail and its defenses, which was done. The committee reported that things looked a trifle ugly about the jail and guessed the lynching had better be postponed. The report was adopted unanimously, and the crowd arrived home in time to do their Sunday morning chores.

Toll-Gate Tragedy.

CINCINNATI, May 17.—Early yesterday morning Joseph Reimers, toll-keeper of the draw bridge at Vincennes, Indiana, was shot dead by James M. Swallow, 18 years of age. Early in the evening, Swallow, with five friends, had attempted to cross the bridge without paying toll, but were prevented. At midnight they returned and all paid toll but Swallow, who refused. Reimers struck him on the arm with a cane, whereupon Swallow drew a revolver and fired the fatal shot. Reimers's wife and daughter rushed out of the house in time to see the murderer and his friends running away. Swallow's home is in Gibson county, Maryland. He escaped, but a reward has been offered for his arrest.

The Cuban Cable.

DAVIS AND DAWES

EXERCISE THEIR PONDEROUS JAWS

Over the Possibilities of the Late "Pressing Resolutions"—The Senate Goes Into Executive Session—The Commerce Committee Reports Favorably on Mr. Robertson.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—In the senate, Mr. Davis of West Virginia, after the reading of the journal, inquired ironically of Mr. Dawes whether he was not now ready to proceed with the consideration of the resolution for the election of senate officers.

Mr. Dawes replied that whatever the majority of the senate should decide on that resolution he would bow to. He would not be found resisting the will of the senate itself. The senator from West Virginia became, from an accidental occurrence, on the republican side, ready to submit to the will of the majority, because he believed that there was a majority on his side. He (Mr. Dawes) had not a word to say, but was willing to bow to the will of the majority, for him or against him.

Mr. Davis said that he was glad that the senator from Massachusetts was willing to proceed with the pressing business which he had been so anxious to get on with during the past month.

Mr. Dawes regretted that the senator was ambitious to expose the ground on which he stood. One would suppose that when a United States senator took a position so inconsistent radically with the fundamental principles of the government that the majority should not rule, unless the majority would do as he wanted, he would not be ambitious to uncover himself to the American people. He (Mr. Dawes) would remind the senator that the scriptues spoke in not commendable terms of men who made themselves bare to the gaze of the indignant public, exposing themselves and their shame. The senator had had no higher ground for his opposition to the resolution than that he was conscious that the result up to yesterday would be against him, and now he woke up to an alarming and new zeal for the passage of the resolution, simply because an accidental majority had yesterday morning been turned upon him. So far as he (Dawes) was concerned, no motion which the senator might make in regard to the resolution would meet with any opposition beyond the force of his vote.

Mr. Davis regretted that the senator should have referred to the scriptures to support him—it didn't come from the right direction. He would like to know how long this "accidental majority" was going to continue. The democrats had held this "accidental majority" three or four terms. He had asked more in pleasantry than otherwise whether the senator from Massachusetts desired to proceed to the consideration of his resolution. He (Davis) had no wish to force it.

Mr. Dawes moved to go into executive session, and declined to yield to Mr. Burnside to call up his inter-oceanic canal resolution.

Mr. Burnside thereupon said he would, to-morrow, call it up and ask the senate to dispose of it in one way or another.

The senate then, at 12:15, went into executive session.

——Democrats are said to be contemplating a weekly newspaper here, to be the organ of the democratic party. It is to be part magazine, part newspaper, half political, half popular, and is to be under the control of Jere Black and his son, Chauncey Black.

——An intimate personal friend of Secretary Blaine says that he has abandoned all aspirations for the presidency and that he desires to remain secretary of state, and to become minister to England if Garfield shall be elected for a second term.

——The committee on commerce this morning decided to report in favor of confirming the nominations of Judge Robertson as collector for the port of New York; General Merritt, as consul general at London; and General Badeau, as charge d'affairs to Denmark. These nominations will be reported back to the senate during to-day's executive session, but will doubtless be laid over under the general rules until to-morrow.

——Among the nominations of the senate to-day were Mrs. Mary H. S. Long, to be postmaster at Charlottsville, Va., and Rebecca A. Nabos at Holy Springs, Miss.

——The senate, in executive session, has confirmed the nomination of Frederick Douglass, to be recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia. There was some opposition and considerable debate, but he was confirmed by an overwhelming majority. The nominations of Judge Robertson, General Merritt and General Badeau were then reported back from the committee on commerce and placed on the calendar, with committee's recommendation for confirmation. They will be called up for action by the senate to-morrow.

——Stanley Matthews to-day took the oath of office as associate justice of the supreme court. Chief Justice Waite has relieved Justice Bradley from duty in the sixth circuit, comprising the states of Kentucky, Tennessee, Michigan and Ohio, and assigned Justice Matthews to that circuit.

What the People of the State Are Doing.

By Mail and Wire to The Constitution.

CONYERS, May 16.—A sad accident happened at the paper mill yesterday morning. Mr. John Harville and his two sons, aged respectively nine and eleven years, were in the river bathing and the little fellows not being able to swim, got into water over their heads, and the oldest was drowned. Mr. Harville was close by and rendered all the assistance he could, but could not save them both. The body was found in about four hours afterwards This is a sad affliction indeed, and the family have the sympathy of the entire community ——The protracted meeting at the Methodist church is growing in interest. The pastor, Rev A.C. Thomas, preached a most excellent sermon yesterday morning to a large and appreciative audience and the prospect indicates good results.

MACON, May 16.—The anticipated visit of General Fitzhugh Lee, of Virginia, to Macon the coming week is attracting a great deal of interest. It is understood that the Second Georgia battalion will tender him an escort on the evening of his address at the theater, and the fine band of the Volunteers will furnish the music. The address will be on the battle of "Chancellorsville," which furnished the finest exhibition of the genius of Lee and the strategy of Jackson during the war between the states. Macon was well represented on that great field, and is proud of her record. A very large audience may be expected to greet General Lee on this occasion.

GRIFFIN, May 16.—Say, you pencil pushers from Newnan and West Point, let up, please, about this locust business! I'm satisfied now the buzzers are harmless, but when I saw them the first time and heard the farmers expressing such plaintive words of fear that the plague was upon us, I caved and spoke of the serious possibilities of the locust ravage. Individually I wasn't scared, but I knew the others were. The next low cuss mentions this matter may expect a challenge.——Maybe we didn't have a sand storm yesterday evening about half-past 6 o'clock. Who says we didn't, prevaricates. At the hour named a bright red cloud, the outer edges of which were very dark, came roaring up from the northwest, and just about scared this people out of their wits. "It's a cyclone, sure!" said a dozen in my hearing, and then when the gusts of wind came, and elevated every square inch of loose dust and sand into veritable clouds, the scene became alarmingly threatening It proved only a scare, however, and in a few minutes the sun went down behind a clear sky. We are needing rain badly, very badly, and men stand ready to swear the crop's a failure unless we have rain. Garden sass is being retarded and strawberries are very much disfigured, with a few still in the ring.——The thermometer has waltzed down 30 degrees since Saturday. This morning it sood at 65; Saturday it started in the eighties and landed at ninety-six. Wonder if we are going to have spring now? Fickle Old Probs!

CARTERSVILLE, May 17.—The May adjourned term of Bartow superior court convened yesterday. Several lawyers from a distance are in attendance. Judge Fain this morning granted an injunction restraining the city authoritie from enforcing an ordinance providing for impounding and selling hogs found running at large in the city. The motion for a new trial in the case of The State vs. A. J. Thomas, convicted at last term of court of the murder of Alford, is being argued——Rev. T. E. Smith and Dr. Best narrowly escaped being seriously hurt this morning. They had started fishing, and when near the railroad, just below town, their horse became frightened at a passing train and whirled suddenly around, turning the buggy over and throwing both heavily to the ground, Smith falling under the buggy. Luckily neither was seriously injured.——Mr. John T. Owen left this vicinity for Staunton, Va., to the general assembly of the Presbyterian church.——Mr. N. S. Eaves and Dr. Lindsay Johnson have begun the erection of a two story brick building on West Main street near the railroad crossing.——That genial gentleman and fluent talker. Dr. Leland, speaks merrily of Conkling's resignation. He says there is not much in it but still he is glad of it. That your Uncle Joseph is a big portion of the democratic senatorial backbone, and that Billy Mahone ain't nothing and that Riddleberger and Gorham are worse than nothing.

DECATUR, May 14.—Rev. Dr. Boggs, pastor Central Presbyterian church, of Atlanta, will, with his family, spend the summer in Decatur. They will occupy Mrs. W. W. McPherson's residence on Webster street.——Miss Annie Swift, daughter of Colonel John N. Swift, of Lithonia, is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. L Goldsmith, at this place.——The wheat and oat crops are very fine in this county, the best we have had in several years. The dry weather is said to be seriously interfering with the growth of cotton in this section of the county. The Sunday-school of the First Presbyterian church, of your city, is picknicking at the children's tabernacle, in this place, to-day. We noticed among the attendants Rev. J. H. Martin, Mr. W. A. Moore, superintendent Sunday-school; Elder W. M. Lowry and Mr. McGahee, of your city, and Rev. Donald Fraser, pastor Decatur Presbyterian church. They all seemed to be enjoying the day finely. There is no better place for a picnic than at Decatur.——Miss Annie Scott, with her Sunday school class and a few invited friends, are enjoying the day at Kirkpatrick's springs, one of the most delightful places in Georgia

DALTON, May 17.—Elisha Wrinkle, who was found guilty, at the last term of the court, of shooting with intent to kill, and bound over for a new trial at the next term of the court, was arrested last Saturday for being engaged in a row with some other parties. On his arrest his bondsmen gave him over to the authorities, withdrawing their security for his appearance at the next court. Wrinkle doubtless saw the impossibility of his getting another bond, and that he would have to remain in jail until court, so he made his escape from the officers as he was being conducted to jail, by running. He was closely pursued, but without success. Every effort has been made by Sheriff Cox and other authorities to capture him.——Misses Florrie and Sallie Parrot, of Cartersville, are in the city, the guests of Misses Trammell.——Misses Carrie and Lizzie O'Barr, of Rome, are in the city, visiting friends and relatives.——The meetings are in progress at the Methodist church.

CANTON, May 16.—The completion of the Marietta and North Georgia railroad is now beginning to shape itself into facts. Some forty or more convicts from the camp situated about five miles from town have been brought to the camp near town and will begin at once to repair the grade and lay cross ties. The trestles and bridges are all being built while the grading is going steadily forward. The squad grading are now near Ball Ground, to which place the road will be completed by the 1st of September next and cars running there. If Pickens county raises her assessment ($10,000) the road will be completed on through to Murphy, North Carolina; if not it is said the road will remain with Ball Ground as its terminus. The good people should not let a few thousand dollars deter the great project which will certainly open up a fine country rich in its minerals, etc.

ELBERTON, May 16.—Dr. D. A. Mathews sowed one acre in clover and oats mixed and gathered and saved from it over eighty tons of splendid hay, which he could sell readily for two hundred and fifty dollars, and the whole cost of which did not exceed twenty-five dollars. This certainly demonstrates the fact that it will pay to raise hay here.——A very large crowd of negroes assembled in town last Friday to witness the execution of Allen Blackwell, but his case having been carried to the supreme court, the hanging of course did not come off. A sham execution was gotten up in the evening which was so successfully managed that a large number of them left with the belief that he had really been executed.——Many new buildings are going up in Elberton, and the general impression is that there will be large increase in the business of the place next fall.

CANTON, May 17.—For the first time in the history of our railroad, the two engines met at Canton this evening. "Little Mary" has just been received from the shops in Atlanta, where she has been undergoing repairs for some time, looking as new and bright as if she had just been made, instead of overhauled. Mr. Mays Billows, one of the best engineers, is at the helm to keep her on the track. Indeed, I may say, Mr. Billows nor Mr. Garwood can be beat as first class engineers. One of the engines will be used as a construction train on the extension. We are glad to see the progress of our road, and trust it will continue. "Let 'er roll." Messrs James W. Robertson, Martin Dooly and T. S. Wallace, the committee appointed by the governor to examine into the road's finances are in Canton upon their mission.

EUFAULA, May 16.—The Eufaula library society at their annual meeting a few days ago elected Mr. Eli S. Shorter president. A good selection. The society is one of the institutions of our place now firmly established.——Rev. Mr. Porter, of Florida, late of Kentucky, is holding a series of meetings here in the First Baptist church, assisted by Rev. Mr. Wamboldt, pastor. Considerable interest is manifested.——The Eufaula oil company opened up this morning on a two weeks' run, having accumulated seed enough for the purpose, since closing about one month ago.——Barbour circuit court, held at Clayton, will begin next Monday, 23d instant, and the circuit court held at Eufaula will begin on the 5th of June, proximo.——We had a fine rain on Saturday night, accompanied by much lightning and thunder.

CONYERS, May 17.—Mr. M. F. Swann died at his home in this place this morning at 3:30 o'clock, after a long and painful illness. He has been in bad health for several years and his friends had hopes of his final recovery until a short time back. Mr. Swann served as a soldier in the late war in Captain J. A. Stewart's company from this, then Newton county, and made a good soldier. He was a member of the Methodist church, and expressed a hope beyond the grave a few hours before he died. He was a member of the Masons and Odd Fellows and requested to be buried by them. His burial will take place to-morrow at 9 o'clock. He leaves a wife and four children. They have the sympathies of the whole community.

GAINESVILLE, May 16.—Dr. M F. Stephenson, the noted geologist and mineralogist, is dangerously ill with pneumonia at his home in this place.——The locusts have made their appearance in this county too. In passing along any of our roads one would imagine from the racket that all of them had come this time. I think surely that your correspondents at Griffin and Newnan have picked up so much about the poor harmless creatures that their feelings have been outraged, and they have therefore left the two localities aforesaid, and all come to the springs of northeast Georgia. At any rate they are here unanimously.——There is a protracted meeting in progress at the Baptist church here.

BYRON, May 16.—Portions of Houston and Crawford counties were visited Saturday night by a fine rain and some hail. Farms and gardens were needing rain much. The spring oats are very much injured up to this time for want of rain. Farm work is progressing well; crops are growing finely and in good condition. Cotton chopping machines are being introduced in this section, with prospects of success as a great labor-saving machine.——Much sickness in the community, though subsiding now.——"No fence" question and the whisky traffic are engaging the thoughts of Houston county at this time.

VALDOSTA, May 12.—At the residence of the bride's mother, in this city, on Wednesday evening the 11th instant, Miss Sallie Lang to Mr. J. B Butler, of Camilla, Ga. Rev. J. R. McKleskey performed the ceremony in a happy manner.——The farmers are now quite busy getting their crops in a good condition. I hear some complaint of having bad stands. In consequence of the late spring all the crops are backward. The amount of oats made will be comparatively small. As great an acreage of cotton is planted this year as last, and but little more corn. We are in much need of rain.

ATHENS, May 17.—Rev. J. B. Mock, D. D., will preach the commencement sermon of the Lucy Cobb Institute.——The merchants here have all agreed to close their stores at 6:50, p m, every day, so that the over-worked clerks will be able to take a rest.——Some of the young ladies find great amusement in indulging in pistol shooting, rather dangerous, though, to lookers-on.——We hear of three mad dogs that have been killed the last day or two. A negro woman and two children were bitten, besides a number of dogs.

ATHENS, May 15.—Two negro men were seriously injured while blasting rock near the grist mill—one of them being blown ten feet in the air and falling in the race in his descent.——We hear that a bevy of the most popular young ladies of our sister cities will visit Athens next week, to be present at the firemen's celebration——Miss Glover has rented the Fulton house and now holds her dancing classes there.

EASTMAN, May 16.—Editor M. L. Burch, of the Eastman Times, is happy. It is a fine boy and a prospective editor or statesman, no doubt. All the rest are girls and we know that Mr. Burch must feel proud of this—his first boy. We extend our congratulations and wish the little newcomer a long life of happiness, prosperity and usefulness to his country.

THOMASTON, May 16.—Mrs. E. E. Love, a most excellent lady, died here last Thursday and was buried at her father's in Meriwether county——Rev. James B. Payne died at his home this morning. He was over seventy years old and was a long time a minister in the North Georgia conference.

What the Papers Say.

Atlanta Sunday Gazette.

We have never had any reason to doubt that the Georgia Western railroad would be built, and that too by General Gordon. Henry Grady deserves as much credit as any one in keeping the importance of the road constantly before the public, thereby exciting a general interest in its success. We suggest that the first engine placed on the road be named Henry W. Grady.

Americus Republican.

Mr. J. T. Howe, of Sumter county, has left in our office a specimen of weed that he picked up on his place, which he says will make good rope, bagging or brown paper. It is called "the wild tea," and is used as a tea by many persons. The specimen left with us has been exposed the whole winter. The outside bark resembles hemp very much, and when twisted makes a strong twine. It grows readily all over the country, and no doubt, if cultivated, and with the proper machinery, bagging enough could be manufactured to bale up all the cotton raised in Georgia, and at profitable rates. A gentleman who has examined the weed also says it has excellent curing properties for wounds, cuts, swelling, old sores, etc., when used as a poultice. In this capacity nothing equals it.

Augusta Chronicle.

Yesterday afternoon, just before the superior court adjournded, James H. Bugg, colored, who was convicted Friday of seduction, signified his readiness to marry the prosecutor, Georgia Lewis, and to give a bond of one thousand dollars, required by the court, for the support of the said Georgia and her child. The proposition was accepted, the girl sent for and the marriage was performed in open court by Judge Snead. Just after the ceremony a girl, calling herself Sarah Bugg, who had watched the trial of Bugg with great interest and had also witnessed the marriage, went out on the steps of the rear portico of the city hall, drank the contents of an ounce vial, threw the vial away and walked out to Telfair street. A gentleman who saw her picked up the vial and discovered that it had contained laudanum. He informed the police of the fact and the woman was immediately followed. At the corner of Telfair and Fifth streets she fell. She was picked up, carried to her home and a physician summoned. She declared to several persons at the court house, before she took the laudanum, that she had prior claims upon Bugg. The latter, who is well educated, was a theological student at the Atlanta colored university. At ten o'clock last night the woman had recovered from the effects of the poison.

FOREIGN FLASHES.

MR. GLADSTONE ON THE LAND BILL.

Lawlessness Increasing in Ireland—More Dynamite for the Czar—The Sultan's Attempt to Catch Midhat Pasha—The French to Occupy Tunis.

LONDON, May 17.—In the house of commons last night Mr. Guest, moderate liberal, urged the government to join Italy in protesting against the outrageous attacks of France on Tunis.

Mr. Gladstone said that when serious charges are made against a power with whom England has been closely allied for over a generation justice, even decency, demanded that the house shall be in possession of authentic information before any action is taken. The conduct of her majesty's government, he said, could not be judged until the papers, which are now preparing, are presented; the most important part thereof would however relate to the proceedings of the late government. He intimated that this part would relate to Lord Salisbury's conversations with Mr. Waddington. If England was called upon to take measures to assert her own views relative to Turkish suzerainty over Tunis, she might be reminded of her own proceedings relative to Algiers.

Mr. Gladstone was somewhat indispose and therefore opened last night's debate on the land bill instead of speaking later. He pointed out that the charges of confiscation had been leveled against almost every beneficial measure of the government. He did not admit that the bill contained anything approaching confiscation, and was not prepared to admit any plea for compensation. He said he had never known so large a measure debated for so long a time with so few serious points brought into discussion. Relative to the objection that tenants only are able to appeal to the court, Mr. Gladstone said the government was prepared to consider in committee any proposal to extend that right to landlords. It had no intention of refusing reasonable amendments. In proportion to their anxiety to give peace to Ireland, it would be their desire to receive from every quarter proposals that might tend to improve the bill. The opposition were playing with edge tools in making the state of Ireland the battle ground of party. If a powerful combination succeeded in overthrowing the bill and the government, a conservative government would only have to pass a larger bill. Mr. Gladstone urged that Lord Beaconsfield would have acquiesced in the inevitable change. He gratefully acknowledged the spirit in which the bill had generally been received in Ireland. The government, he said, could not assent to great changes of form, as if it brought in one bill and passed another, the house of lords might be encouraged to reject the bill. The debate was again adjourned.

Michael Brennon in a speech at Bally Roan on Sunday last declared that a year hence any reformer who proposed to compensate landlords would be laughed off the platform. He characterized the land bill as a miserable measure, and advocated a general strike against all rent; said the anti slavery movement in America commenced by offers of compensation to slave owners, but that slavery was washed away in blood. The people should make it impossible for landlords to collect rents.

Mr. Gladstone is indisposed and confined to his bed, but his illness is not serious.

Accounts from Ireland agree that the recent numerous arrests there have not checked the agitation.

TURKEY.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 15.—The ambassadors of the powers have resolved to request Turkey to withdraw the conditions she has proposed to add to the Greek frontier convention.

The bey of Tunis telegraphed to the porte on Thursday as follows: "A French general has come to my palace with a body of cavalry and submitted a treaty recommending a French protectorate to me for signature, stating that he would not leave the palace without an answer. Seeing that I was under pressure of superior force, a French army being near my residence, I was obliged for honor's sake and for the prevention of bloodshed, to sign without examining or discussing, but declaring that I was constrained by force." Several of the powers have replied to the porte's recent circular to the effect that the sultan's suzerainty over Tunis was not clearly defined in the existing treaties. The porte has resolved to protest against French abuse of force.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 17.—The palace of Midhat Pasha was suddenly surrounded to-day by three battalions of troops under command of an aide-de-camp of the sultan. Midhat, however, escaped by the side door and took refuge at the French consulate, whence he issued an appeal to foreign consuls for protection. The consuls have applied to the ambassadors for instructions. The ministers of justice has left for Syria.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

It is officially announced that the complicity of Midhat Pasha in the murder of Abdul Aziz has been established. He has been dismissed from his governorship and Ali Pasha has been appointed his successor. Said Pasha, president of the council of ministers, has telegraphed to the bey of Tunis that the porte has protested against the treaty with France, which he declares to be a violation of the sultan's rights, and null and void.

RUSSIA.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

CONSTANSTINOPLE, May 16.—It is stated that Russia has informed the powers that she was taken by surprise by the action of the prince of Bulgaria, but highly approves of it. The prince has notified the powers that an armed Turkish band numbering two hundred has entered Bulgaria near Kustendje.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 16.—The railway workmen at Ekalerinaslar have pillaged the shops of several Jews. The arrival of troops stopped further rioting. Order has also been restored at Kenotop and Ananjeff. There have been anti-Jewish disturbances at Warsaw. The Jews of Odessa have been ordered to surrender their arms in consequence of a Jew having killed a Christian. The local authorities of Ovel have received a revolutionary proclamation through the mails. A member of the revolutionary congress, which was held some time ago at Liptezek, has been arrested.

LONDON, May 17.—The Daily News' St. Petersburg dispatch says fresh riots, directed against the Jews, have occurred at Simla, in the government of Kieff, and at Odessa, where the Jews' house were wrecked.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Cologne Gazette says yesterday an ensign found a mine of 37 pounds of gunpowder under the stone bridge at the steamer landing, in the street leading to the czar's Koesela railway station.

Two naval lieutenants have been arrested at Cronstadt for obstructing a quantity of dynamite from the imperial mining department. Energetic precautions have been taken at Warsaw against anti-Jewish disturbances announced for to-morrow.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

ODESSA, May 17.—The military are bivouacked throughout the city. The governor has warned the inhabitants to remain in their homes in the event of a disturbance.

SPAIN.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

LONDON, May 17.—A Madrid correspondent of the Daily News says there is some agitation here looking to the interference by Spain in Morocco similar to that of France in Tunis. The scheme is very popular.

FRANCE.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

PARIS, May 16.—The debate on the scrutin de liste bill comes on this week. The committee report rejecting the liste system by a vote of 8 to 3 will be presented in the chamber of deputies Monday.

MARSELLES, May 16.—A potest has been made before the Russian consulate against the execution of Hessy Helfmann, the Jewish woman concerned in the assassination of the czar.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

LONDON, May 17.—A Paris dispatch to the Standard says M. Gambetta, president of the chamber of deputies, will speak in favor of scrutin de liste on Thursday next. When he finishes the question will be settled and liste will be voted.

ITALY.

ROME, May 16.—King Humbert has accepted the resignation of the ministry, and has asked Signor Sella, leader of the right, to form a cabinet. Signor Sella has consented to undertake the task. The tone of to-day's newspapers bears witness to the profound impression the Franco-Tunisian treaty has caused. The Bersogliere says Signor Cairoli's ministry erred solely through loyalty and integrity. They could not have anticipated the conclusion of such a treaty after the declarations of France.

The Popolo Romano says: "Italy is resigned, but she hopes that the day will not be far distant when France may have to display a like resignation."

The Reforma, Signor Crispi's organ, says: "The ministry now assuming power will have to deal with a painful state of things. Italy must collect herself and be prepared, if she wishes to exist. We desire peace, but with honor and security." The Diretto, Signor Depreti's organ, prints the news without comment. Signor Sella has sought the co-operation of the left center on the formation of a new cabinet, but Signor Coppino, the leader of that section, refused all proposals to join the ministry. Negotiations were consequently opened with the other members of that party. The left are exasperated at the turn of events and are preparing to vigorously oppose the new cabinet. It is stated from Milan that the king refused to assent to the dissolution of parliament; consequently it is thought that Signor Sella's cabinet, if formed, will not remain in power long.

TUNIS.

PARIS, May 17.—Telegraphic orders have been issued to occupy Tunis in consequence of the bey's telegram to the porte.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

TUNIS, May 16.—General Breard will retire on Monday from his positions around Bardo palace to Djedida It is stated that he will participate in further operations against the Kroumir. The French have occupied Beumenter.

The bey declines to furnish to the foreign representatives copies of the treaty with France.

It is stated that the French will occupy Goletta. Great discontent prevails, and the principal Moslems are preparing to lodge a protest with the sultan.

LONDON, May 16.—The Times' Tunis correspondent says the treaty provides for a war indemnity, and French protection and surveillance of the frontier and coast by the occupation of the places thereon. The French and Tunisian governments will arrange for the payment of the public debt. The international commission being superceded, France engages to protect Tunis against all foreign powers. The French ambassadors and consuls will represent Tunis abroad. Some of the other conditions have already been made public.

The Times's Paris correspondent confirms the above sketch of the treaty, adding that it provides that the French occupation will cease when the bey has shown that he can insure the security of his frontiers.

LONDON, May 17.—The Standard's Tunis dispatch, dated Monday, says the population is much agitated. The entry of French troops is hourly expected. The native troops have been ordered to peacefully give way.

A dispatch from Tunis dated the 16th says it is now considered probable that the French troops will not enter Tunis. M. Roustan, minister plenipotentiary, and General Breard have consequently become unpopular with the French colony and the troops. The government continues to conceal the terms of the treaty from the Tunisians.

OUR NEW JUDGE

Grows Restive of the Charges Against Him.

NEW YORK, May 17.—A Washington special says: "Judge Stanley Matthews was accused by the speakers at the public meeting in New York on Saturday evening, of being the paid attorney of Jay Gould, C. P. Huntington and of the Union Pacific railroad. A friend of Judge Matthews desires your correspondent to say as a matter of justice, that this statement is absolutely without foundation and that Judge Matthews has never been employed by Gould or Huntington, nor has he ever been the attorney of any one of the Pacific railroads, or employed by them, or in receipt of money from them. His friends say that he does not think it necessary to reply to attacks upon him, preferring to let his conduct on the bench be an answer to such attacks, but as these assertions above positively contradicted were made by speakers at a public meeting, they regard it as only just to him to make the truth known."

THE HUDSON RIVER

Enjoys a Delicious Entertainment.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

NEW YORK, May 17.—The long pending prize fight between John S. Sullivan, a noted pugilist of Boston, and John Flood, of this city, was decided last night on the Hudson river, nine miles above Yonkers. The fight is described as having been a one-sided affair, lasting only 16 minutes. In the 8th round after an exchange, Sullivan, with tremendous force, landed a heavy blow on Flood's jaw, and the latter fell like a log, helpless in the middle of the ring. He was carried to his corner, when his head dropped to his right side and his fighting was done. Sullivan's reputation had conquered Flood before he entered the ring, for he was pale and trembling when he left his quarters to meet his opponent. Sullivan will now be matched to fight Paddy Ryan, as the Boston sporting men think him a pugilistic wonder. No arrests were made.

Taking a Friend's Advice and Hanging Himself.

GREENVILLE, N. Y., May 17.—Sam Horton, Jr., recently got drunk. He had been to Catskill with a companion, and when near South Cairo his companion said: "I say, Sam, If I were you and could not go to Catskill without getting drunk I'd hang myself;" whereupon Horton said that if his friend would furnish the rope he would hang himself. At the South Cairo hotel the rope was procured, which Horton took and went into the barn, his friend supposing him to be joking. A few minutes afterward Horton was found hanging from a beam, with the rope around his neck, and life almost extinct. He was cut down, and the services of a physician were necessary to restore him to consciousness.

The Louisville Races.

LOUISVILLE, May 17.—There was an immense crowd present to witness the first day's events of the jockey clubs. The weather was delightful. The following are the summaries: First race, one mile and a quarter for all ages, first $400; Bancroft first, Checkmate second, Gabriel third; time 2:10½. Bancroft was the big favorite. Kentucky Derby for 3 year olds, 1½ miles: Hindoo first, Lilex second, Alfambra third; time 2:40. Hindoo sold favorite at 4 to 1 over six. In the field the horses ran in a bunch for one mile when Hindoo went to the front and came in handsomely.

The third race mile heats, Pope Leo was the favorite. The following is the summary: Boulevard 1, 1; Frank Cheatham, 2, 2; Mary Anderson, 3, 3. Time 1:45¾, 1,46.

The Burial of Gobright.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The funeral of L. W. Gobright, formerly and for many years the Washington agent of the New York associated press, took place at his late residence in this city this afternoon. The parlors were thronged with friends assembled to pay the last tribute of love and respect to the dead journalist. Leading men of every walk of life were present. All members of the grand lodge, as well as representatives of other branches of the Odd Fellows order, were in attendance. "The Oldest Inhabitants' Association," of which the deceased was a member, was also represented, and formed a part of the procession which escorted the remains to their last resting place in Glenwood cemetery.

The Cotton Planters' Association.

VICKSBURG, Miss., May 17.—The Cotton Planters' association are informed that liberal arrangements have been made by the citizens of Memphis for entertaining the members of the association at their annual convention to be held there May 25th. The exhibition of improved machinery will probably exceed in extent any previous display ever made in the south. The exhibits will include the improved attachments for making yarns from seed cotton. This promises to be the largest and most important convention of the cotton planters ever held. The fare will reduced one-half on all the railroads and the Anchor line steamers.

Fatal Excursion.

ST. PAUL, May 17.—As the excursion steamer Knapp was descending the St. Croix from Taylor's falls to Stillwater, last evening, with a pleasure party and barge, two men were drowned by the careening of the latter while dancing was progressing on the barge. There was a crash that sent the craft reeling and precipitated O. M. Opsape and Jacob Jacobi into the water. Opsape sank at once, but Jacobi kept his head above the water a few seconds. A float was thrown within his reach, but he did not grasp it and sank.

A Model Crazy House.

DENVER, Colorado, May 17.—Last night at the Grandview hotel, near this city, J. D. Rhyners murdered his wife while she was asleep. They had been conducting an insane asylum on a new principle, which proved a failure and Rhyners became discouraged. It was his intention to commit suicide after he killed his wife, but his courage failed him.

FINANCIAL FACTS.

AUGUSTA, Ga, May 17.—Stocks strong; Georgia, 185; Central, active and higher, 153½ bid, 155@159 asked; Memphis and Charleston 75@76; Charlotte, Columbia and Augusta, 55@56.

NEW YORK, May 17.—The stock market opened strong and generally higher, but in the early dealings prices declined ¼ to 2¼ per cent, Elevated railway shares leading the downward movement. At first board a firmer tone prevailed and an advance of ¼ to 4 per cent was recorded, in which Iron Mountain, Texas Pacific, Louisville and Nashville, Western Union and Delaware Lackawana and Western were most prominent. This was followed by a slight reaction and later by a partial recovery, but during the afternoon a pressure to sell was developed in elevated railroad properties, which brought these shares down 3 and 4 per cent, the general list selling off ¼ to 1½ per cent. In late dealings there was a rally of 3 per cent in Manhattan, 3⅛ in Metropolitan and 3½ in New York, while the general market sold up ¼ to 1¼ per cent. Sales aggregated 450,361 shares.

Address THE CONSTITUTION, Atlanta, Ga.

Entered as second-class matter in the Atlanta post-office, December 11, 1879.

ATLANTA, GA., MAY 18, 1881.

The judgment of the country on the Conkling rumpus is practically expressed. The people through the press say that a sillier or more theatric occurrence cannot be recorded in the history of American politics. It was very like the act of a willful child that has a lesser one under his control.

THE nomination of Mr. Robertson to be collector of the port of New York is out of the commerce committee favorably indorsed. It will doubtless be taken up to-day and almost unanimously confirmed. The remaining nominations will probably be disposed of to-day and to-morrow, and a final adjournment had on Friday.

SENATOR HARRIS, of Tennessee, is now president of the senate, pro tempore, and in case of Mr. Arthur's absence he will preside over a body that one Mr. Mahone proposed to rule as umpire, and in case of the death of the two presidential incumbents, he would be called upon to take charge of the government. Mr. Mahone counted his chickens before they were hatched when he joined the republican party.

The irrepressible conflict in the republican party between the stalwarts and half-breeds will be begun in earnest as soon as Mr. Robertson is confirmed. The two wings of the party are alike fighting for spoils, and the fight is not the less bitter because of its low and unpatriotic nature. Mr. Conkling and General Grant and the great body of stalwarts intend to make war in earnest this time, and any attempt to close the breach would be simply a waste of time and energy. It is to go on, and the democrats have only to stand harmoniously by to see the fun culminate in 1884.

No one should build up any expectations of just or laudable action on the part of the New York legislature in filling the two vacant senatorial seats. Both branches of the legislature are overwhelmingly republican, and the New York boss controls them as fully as he controls the late assistant senator of the state. If Conkling had really desired to appeal to the people of the state, he would have awaited the adjournment of the legislature, which takes place next week. He would have submitted his claims to the legislature that will be chosen next November. But he prefers a sham indorsement that he is sure of, to a real indorsement that he might not get.

THE manifesto of ex-Senators Conkling and Platt is the boshiest of bosh. These two men are politicians. Neither has even been identified with any great or even wise measure—each is a political manager of the most unscrupulous school. The high ground that these two men take in relation to civil service reform and the manner of nomination and confirmation is simply a mass of phrases—nothing more. They have never practiced what they preach, and no one will give them credit for patriotism when they lay claim to it for the first time under a galling and distressing fire. They have set up a strictly imaginative bomb-proof—one that will not shelter them for a moment from the storm of ridicule that is pouring down upon them.

Mr. Conkling's Farce.

At this distance, it is impossible to imagine how Mr. Conkling has strengthened his position by resigning his seat in the senate and dragging after him the ridiculous Mr. Platt. If the intellectual apparatus of the New York boss were not wholly without the leaven of humor he would have hesitated long before exposing himself to the merciless sarcasm in which the American public is wont to indulge when such a remarkable exhibition of stupidity is brought to its attention. The truth is, Mr. Conkling's resignation is a farce, and nothing more can be made of it.

Fortunately for the whole country, the debates in the senate during the past two months—the unscrupulous attempts of the republican party leaders to consummate a corrupt bargain by the gifts of office—and the complete exposure of the methods and machinery by which the country was carried for Garfield, have given the people a clearer insight into professional politics than they have ever had before. The desires and purposes of both factions of the republican party have been exposed to the point of confession, and the people are therefore thoroughly well-informed as to the meaning and merits of the controversy which is going on between Mr. Conkling and his friends on the one hand and the administration on the other. The good of the country is not considered by the republican party in general or the quarreling factions in particular. It is a fight for personal and political supremacy in which honest people can only have the interest of indignation—indignation at the fact that the power which a patriot would exercise for the benefit of the country is exercised by the politicians in behalf of their own personal ends. In this view of the case, the administration has no advantage over Mr. Conkling; but while this is true, the policy of the democrats should aim at widening the breach between the republicans in order that the corrupt party may be destroyed and new and pure methods of carrying on the government of the people introduced.

We might proceed to consider the situation from this point of view, but the picturesque view of Mr. Conkling arrayed in motley garb comes between the situation and the moralities. A circus may suggest the necessity of a sermon, but no sermon can be effective while the performance is going on. When the apparently clumsy clown, who has been making ridiculous efforts to leap over a collection of spotted horses, suddenly leaps nimbly into the air and lands on the small of his back twenty feet further than the occasion demands, there is apt to be uproarious applause. The feat appeals to that sense of the ridiculous which characterizes the multitude. So that when we begin to take a serious view of the situation as it exists to-day, the absurd figure of Mr. Conkling sprawling around and clinging wildly to Platt's collar, drives away all suggestion of seriousness.

Here is a man who is endeavoring to make an impression on the public by methods that would be clumsy even if they had not been exposed. We see the sheet-iron that produces the thunder, the watering-pot that makes the rain, and the coffee-pot that has been utilized as a tin helmet. The spectacle is funny rather than imposing. The uproar is deafening, but not impressive. Mr. Conkling resigns in order to secure the indorsement of his state, as he says. In reality, he resigns in order to be re-elected by a parcel of puppets who have been fixed in advance. If Mr. Conkling was sincere, he would appeal to a legislature fresh from the people. An indorsement of this sort would be worth something, but to be re-elected by his own tools is the veriest farce.

What is his grievance? Simply this, that the president refused to withdraw a nomination at his dictation. It is a nomination, too, in which, as a matter of fact, the people of New York have less interest than the people of the other states. Mr. Conkling will be satisfied with nothing less than the disposal of the government patronage so far as New York is concerned, but we are curious to know how a re-election will serve his purposes. If every man, woman and child in the state of New York should indorse his position that indorsement would not change the constitution of the United States which places the appointing power in the hands of the president, to be exercised with the advice and consent of the senate. Mr. Conkling is not the senate, even if such a cipher as Platt is taken into consideration, and a re-election will not give him the power to dictate appointments.

As for Platt—well, Platt excites our sympathy. We are sorry his feelings have been hurt. He is a harmless sort of fellow, and it is to be regretted that the administration could not have been successfully conducted without wounding Platt.

The Railroad Center of the South.

Atlanta has become the central point of the railroad system of the southern cis-Mississippi country. THE CONSTITUTION has repeatedly explained that railroad managers would sooner or later find that they could not profitably ignore the existence of Atlanta, and no intelligent student of the situation will, we are confident, dispute this morning the correctness of the position. Let us glance again at the situation.

The system of the southwest does not concern us greatly. Even the line from Chicago to New Orleans via Jackson is of little interest to the southeastern states. In those states proper there are five competing combinations, namely, the Louisville and Nashville, the Clyde or Richmond, the Cole syndicate which may include the Cincinnati Southern road, the Wadley combination, the Wolff or Alabama and Great Southern combination, and the projected Baltimore line. These six and no more. These six will substantially control the transportation business of Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, the two Carolinas, and Virginia. They have come to stay, and can neither be gobbled up nor driven out of existence. They cannot be used to form new combinations—each being a combination in itself, complete, strong and impregnable.

Three of these combinations now meet and exchange business in Atlanta—the Louisville, the Clyde and the Wadley. The Cole system will be here on the first day of the new year or soon thereafter. The Wolff system is not to come here unless it can utilize the Georgia Western—the two lines intersecting each other at Birmingham. The Wolff system is the weak sister of the six, for at its northern terminus, Chattanooga, it has no certain connections, and it straggles through Alabama, connecting with nothing in particular in Mississippi, and reaching the Atlantic coast by a circuitous route. Unless it is worked with the Georgia Western, and can gain good connections at Chattanooga, it will never prove a very dangerous rival of the five other combinations. The extension of the Baltimore and Ohio to Atlanta is proclaimed, and if the new system is to become a real power in the southwest this proclamation must be carried into effect. We believe it will be.

In Atlanta, then, the five great combinations are to meet; and it should not be forgotten that they neither have nor can have any other common meeting point. The nearest approach to such a point will be Chattanooga, where three or perhaps four of them will be concentrated, but no other city will have more than two of the six. Atlanta is sure to have five of them, and the sixth may be compelled to come also in order to gain valuable connections. This will forever establish the fact that Atlanta is the railroad center of all the southern country that lies east of the great river, and every new railroad will be built with more or less reference to the admitted center. Every mile of new road in the southeast will then add to Atlanta's trade and prosperity. The people of Atlanta do not feel elated over the prospect, because the result now in sight has all along been inevitable. The southeastern road that has no direct Atlanta connection will prove to be a road of little value. As all roads in the north lead to railroad centers, so will all southeastern roads lead to Atlanta. This may seem boastful, but it is certainly no more than a fair statement of the situation, as it will soon appear to even the most incredulous. Atlanta has but to be true to her reputation for energy and enterprise to rapidly become a town second only to New Orleans in population, and second to none in respect to trade and prosperity in the cotton belt.

THE statement that both Conkling and Platt had resigned is to be construed as a typographical error. Conkling simply retired and took his baggage with him.

MRS. LILLIE CHRISTIANCY will probably regret to learn that her Uncle Isaac, who went out from Lima to witness a battle, made a counter-charge upon the town, with his coat-tails distended, when the Chilians were victorious. The attention of Mr. Blaine is called to this diplomatic retreat of the venerable Christiancy.

OBVIOUSLY there is something wrong in our peculiar system of government when Brady and Conkling can both resign without disturbing the equilibrium.

PERHAPS Mr. Conkling would like to be succeeded by Kelly.

As a genuine reformer, Mr. Dawes must have his Ponca, but it is ridiculous for the Massachusetts senator to endeavor to convince the country that Gorham is a Ponca. On the contrary, he is the Sitting Bull of the republican party

IN the language of Mr. Sprague, Aha! In fact, Oho!

No Ohio man has resigned. On the contrary, quite not

IT is natural to suppose that some one has hurt Platt's feelings. This wanton disregard of the amenities is to be deprecated.

CAN Mr. DAWES allude to the Gorham-Riddleberger affair as unfinished business?

IF the New York legislature were made up of representative men, Mr. Conkling's theatric retirement would amount to a collapse.

MR. DAWES will probably concede a temporary democratic majority in the senate.

Months and months ago, we advised those most interested to keep their eyes on Colonel Cole. Somehow or other, every move he makes is in the interest of Georgia and Atlanta.

IF the entire republican party were to resign, the country would be resigned.

PLATT, it will be remembered, has also resigned. This is as it should be. Platt's position was necessarily that of an interloper.

Is there anything to prevent the resignation of Arthur?

Is Mr. Conkling's resignation the result of a caucus resolve?

It is well enough to remember that Colonel Cole is in a position where he cannot be sold out by stockholders with a turn for speculation.

As a competing point, Atlanta has no equals and few superiors.

It would seem that Atlanta still has prospects as a railroad center.

Conkling and the President.

Columbus Times.

For ourselves, we do not wish Mr. Garfield any general good luck, but we do want to see the supercilious boss brought to the level of the ordinary senator.

Chattanooga Times.

If Mr Garfield ever contemplated yielding a hair's breadth of the ground on which he planted himself at the opening of the conflict with the presumptuous New York dictator, he cannot now for one moment think of such humiliation of himself and his cabinet as a compromise would involve. He were less than a man and fit only for the servant of a slave, if he surrenders one jot or tittle of his prerogatives. If he stands firm the people as one man will applaud and sustain him. If he shows the white feather it were better for him and his fame that he had been laid in his tomb on the fourth of March, instead of entering on his high office amid the triumphant shouts of his party and the good will and sympathy of those who oppose his election.

Nashville Banner.

The fierce, protracted antagonism between President Garfield and Senator Conkling, upon which the attention of the entire country has been concentrated, assumed a new and startling phase to-day, Conkling formally resigning the New York senatorship, and Platt following his example. The tidings of this sudden and very unexpected action of the arrogant, domineering leader of the republican party will send a thrill of surprise throughout the land, commingled with pleasure, which, opposed by regret on the part of a large and very strong array of his supporters, will greatly predominate. We congratulate the people of this free and independent union upon the result of the battle. It is eminently fitting that the imperious, headstrong statesman who sought to control the chief officer of our government and the body of highest rank in authority, should be humbled to the dust and made to realize that the days of one-man power have passed away forever, and that henceforward the conduct of national affairs will not remain subject to the will of a single senator, however valuable his services in behalf of the organization in control of the country. In common with an overwhelming proportion of the population of this "indissoluble union of indestructible states," we congratulate President Garfield upon the outcome of his struggle for supremacy. He remains president. Conkling is no longer the representative of the empire state, but a cowed bully, sullen in his rage but without that power which made him prominent. We also congratulate the democracy of America, for the wedge is riving their sworn foe, and by being driven through and through will disintegrate it beyond hope of ever being closed again, will carry New York and Indiana in 1884 and land a democrat in the executive mansion.

The Republican Row.

St. Louis Globe Democrat, rep.

It cannot be denied that Mr. Garfield found the republican party, on his accession to the presidency, more thoroughly united and harmonious than it had been since the election of Lincoln in 1860. What has happened since we all know, likewise who is to blame for what has happened. However, it can't be helped, and we must get along as best we can until 1884, when we shall try to elect a man who will not, as the first act of his administration, make a causeless and spiteful war upon one of the acknowledged leaders of the party.

Cleveland Herald, rep.

Mr. Conkling will find before he is through with this business that James A. Garfield has character and individuality sufficient to be the head of his own administration; that he knows the American people, their feelings, thoughts, desires and aspirations better by far than the "imperious and irritable" gentleman from New York; and that in all that he has done or will do hereafter, he will be supported against the aristocratic Conkling by the people of the United States, as General Jackson was supported against that other and similar aristocrat John C. Calhoun Springfield Republican, rep.

Conkling apparently does not expect more than 20 senators to support his opposition to Robertson, which will not be enough to defeat him. It is mysteriously intimated that if things are brought to this dreadful pass—that is, of Robertson's confirmation—Conkling has in view "a certain step" which will "more than counter balance the empty victory of the Blaine-Garfield combination, achieved at the price of the possible destruction of the republican party." This is terrible Can it be that Conkling will join the nihilists? His contempt for social propriety lends color to the awful thought.

Mr. Windom and the People.

Philadelphia Times.

It is now reported that Secretary Windom is convinced that the debt could have been refunded at three per cent.; in other words, that the bill which Mr. Hayes foolishly vetoed was perfectly sound and practicable. With fours selling at a rate which makes them worth 3 09 per cent. to investors and four and a halfs at a price which produces 2.85, it is no wonder that light begins to dawn upon the minds which permitted themselves to be beclouded by the national banks. But Mr. Windom really ought to tell the country how, with all this illumination, he has nevertheless agreed to pay three and a half per cent. to lenders who are willing to take three per cent. Those who are obliged to make up this annual payment would really like to know.

The Cotton Exposition.

New Orleans Democrat.

The Atlanta cotton exposition is daily growing in size. It was originally intended only to exhibit cotton products and manufactures, but the liberal manner in which the exhibition fund was subscribed to in the north and west and the great interest shown in the exhibition, have persuaded the managers to somewhat enlarge the scope of the display. There will be, for instance, a special building for the display of the mining resources of the Piedmont country. It has further been decided to hold various other special exhibits. One will be a display of horses and mules, another a cattle, sheep and hog show. There will also be poultry and bench shows and an agricultural and horticultural fair.

State Sovereignty in a New Form.

Cleveland Herald, rep.

The New York senator has revived the dogma of state sovereignty in one of its most offensive forms and to-day seeks to commit the senate of the United States to the formal indorsement of the dangerous doctrines fought by republicans for forty years, and only overcome by the expenditure of countless treasure and a million of valuable lives. To talk of his "imperious and irritable temper" in the face of what are the logical consequences of his acts is like laughing at a child setting fire to the house. He not only aims to usurp the prerogatives of the president, but he seeks to do so under cover of doctrines utterly destructive to the constitution and liberty of the country.

Bossism to Depart.

New York Tribune.

Bossism will depart forever this week and leave the republican party more robust than ever. If the democrats don't believe this let them advertise for a republican who has left his party because of the recent controversy, and see how many responses they get.

Conkling's Measure Taken.

Philadelphia Times.

Now that the country has finally got a pretty accurate measure of Senator Conkling, it finds he is not such a mammoth affair as he has been cracked up to be.

At Albany.

New York Star.

There can be no greater mistake than to suppose that Governor Cornell is for Conkling in this fight. Cornell is for Cornell—and a second term.

A Good Scheme.

Cincinnati Gazette.

The talk about the improved version of the New Testament is likely to cause a revival in the practice of reading the Bible—so many people will want to see the changes for themselves.

Mahone Begins to be a Statesman.

Chicago Times.

On the confirmation of Stanley Matthews, little Mahone, the artful dodger of the senate, dodged. Mahone is rapidly learning the ways of statesmanship.

Morning Calls.

Come, Lou, will you never be ready?
  I'll button your gloves for you, there
Your new hat is very becoming;
  It suits you—pale blue—you're so fair,
Now for me, I'm as dark as an Indian,
  And so I wear red and old gold;
We'll drive first to old Mrs. Jones's—
  If we don't go, papa will scold.

So we might as well have it over,
  "Not at home"—well, I'm thankful indeed
Now the Greys. Out again—we are lucky,
  Who's next on the list? Mrs. Sneyde,
She's a bore, but her parties are pleasant,
  Then her brother is such a nice beau!
Now, mind, we can't stay but ten minutes,
  We've so many places to go.

(Now, John, drive to Mrs. Van Upstart's),
  It isn't her day to receive,
And so we shall probably miss her;
  If we do, I am sure I shant grieve.
How are you Mrs. Van Upstart?
  So glad you are in! N—! and I
Are out making calls this fine morning,
  And felt that we couldn't pass by.

(John drive to the Blairs and De Ruyters),
  They're all in deep mourning, and so
We need only leave cards; give him mamma's—
  They'll think she was with us, you know.
And now to the Devins'; Jule told me
  They're going to give a grand ball,
The cards are not out, so they'll think it
  Mere courtesy in us to call.

Look! there's Fannie Harris, I saw her,
  She's just turned the corner, let's go
And leave her our cards while she's walking,
  It won't take five minutes, you know,
We've a party call due at the Graynors,
  It's one that we really must pay,
And then we must go home to luncheon,
  There's company asked for to-day.

Having heard very high praise of the St. Jacobs Oil, I concluded to make a trial. My left arm feeling too painful to endure a severe rubbing, I took a piece of flannel, soaked it well with the St. Jacobs Oil, and put it around my arm as tightly as I could bear it. After the first night of this trial, I commenced to experience relief, and after two days all pain vanished, leaving a permanent cure.

—Lord Barrington's family numbered some of Lord Beaconsfield's earliest friends. Lord Rowton, the late earl's secretary, he met first under rather ludicrous circumstances at a country house. Dr. Kidd had long been his physician and accompanied him to Berlin, and Dr Quain's daughter is married to the nephew of Sir Philip Rose, long Beaconsfield's legal adviser.

Liebig Co's Coca Beef Tonic.

"Is far superior to the fashionable and illusive preparations of beef, wine and iron," says Professor F. W. HUNT, M. D., Honorary Member Imperial Medical Society of St. Petersburg, Russia, etc., etc. It will reconstruct the most shattered and enfeebled, reinvigorate the aged and infirm, and make sickly children blooming and healthy. It is invaluable in all female complaints, removing irregularity, pains and exhaustion. And it quiets restless children and infants. Beware of worthless imitations.

—The Literary World describes the heroine of a new novel as one of those deep, reticent, inscrutable but noble beings, with a manner all coldness and a heart all warmth, who, if we are to judge from novels and magazine stories, are so uncomfortably prevalent in America, and says that it has frequently met this lady, but never out of muslin covers.

The Power of the Press.

In no way is the power of the press more surely shown than in the universal knowledge that has in less than a year, been diffused throughout fifty millions of people of the wonderful curative properties of that splendid remedy Kidney-Wort. And the people from the Atlantic to the Pacific have shown their intelligence and their knowledge of what is in the papers, by already making Kidney-Wort their household remedy for all diseases of the kidneys, liver and bowels.—Herald.

—M. Nickolaus Rubenstein died lately in Paris about the same time as a Russian baroness. It is reported that their bodies were sent to Russia by the same train. At Berlin the coffins were accidentally changed, with the result that while Rubinstein was quietly interred at Riga, the body of the unknown Russian baroness was committed to the earth amid all the pomp and circumstance of a public funeral at Moscow. The report may be the invention of an unscrupulous French wit, but the mistake was one which, if the coffins were not opened, might easily occur.

Forty Years' Experience of an Old Nurse.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP is the prescription of one of the best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and has been used for forty years with never-failing success by millions of mothers for their children. It relieves the child from pain, cures dysentery and diarrhœa, griping in the bowels and wind-colic. By giving health to the child it rests the mother. Price 25 cents a bottle.

A BRIEF WORD AS TO PRICES

Persons who desire to buy such things as Diamonds, Jewelry, Silver Ware, Watches, Porcelains, etc., are of ten hindered by the fear that the prices may be exorbitant.

As to our prices, we remark:

1. We make very large purchases and very large sales. Our transactions are all for cash. Therefore, our prices are low.
2. We are satisfied with small profits. The extent of our business warrants this, and it is greatly to the advantage of buyers.
3. We sell only fine qualities of goods in all our departments. But these will frequently be found lower in price than common goods are sold elsewhere.
4. We invite careful comparison and close examination as to quality and price.
5. The fixed price is marked in plain figures on every article we sell.
6. Strangers coming to the city are invited to visit us and see for themselves. Those who cannot come are invited to write for such goods as they may wish to examine with a view to purchase. These will be sent at our expense and brought back at our expense if not approved.

THE END OF THE WORLD.

Predicted by Proctor and Indorsed by Many as to Occur This Year.

A Scientific Issue Taken by Others and of Little Comfort to the Adventists.

Some Matters of Great Importance Which are Occurring and Require Care.

Everything indicates important events the present year. The unusually severe winter; the floods which have followed it and the prospectively intense summer are all significant. And while there are no grounds for apprehending the "end of the world" there is reason why care and caution should be used on every hand. The end of the world is liable to come to very many who do not carefully guard their lives and especially should the kidneys and liver be kept in perfect order at this very season. How this can most effectually be done may be judged by the following statement, which is one of thousands of a similar nature:

Rev. J. E. Rankin, D. D., of Washington, whose experience in this direction is both extended and valuable, has made the following statement:

"I have known of several persons who regarded themselves as greatly benefited and some of them as permanently cured of diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs by Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. I have known, too, of its use in similar cases by physicians of the highest character and standing. I do not doubt that it has great virtue. This treatment I want, in the interests of humanity, to recommend."

These are certainly times which try the constitutions of the most hardy and it is imperative if life and health are desired that care should be exercised. Do not delay; life may depend upon it; health and happiness certainly will.

What Is It?

From Hot Springs, Arkansas, Sentinel, May 5, 1881.

In this age of quackery and misrepresentation it is refreshing to meet with a remedy which personal observation teaches us possesses undoubted merit and never fails to accomplish all that is claimed for it. We refer to Swift's Syphilitic Specific. Of all the proprietary medicines now in the market there are none that can compare with S.S.S. It is guaranteed to cure in all cases of blood poisoning, whether from mercury, syphilis, or in fact anything else, and in cases of heriditary taint, scrofula, catarrh, etc., it never fails to effect a cure if persevered in. At the office in this city cases will be taken on the principle of no cure no pay. This proves the unbounded confidence of the proprietors in the virtues of their remedy, a confidence we, from personal observation, have been led to share.

People who have been salivated with mercury and their stomachs ruined with potash, can appreciate a remedy, which being free from both, possesses all their virtues and leaves none of their bad effects. In fact as an eradicator of mercury and a builder up of a system ruined with strong medicines, it is unequaled. Persons while using S. S. S. gain appetite, flesh and strength rapidly, and the effects are apparent to the most casual observer.

TRADE S.S.S. MARK

N. B.—Office, located in the south-end under Hot Springs hotel.

Hot Springs, May 4th, 1881.

S. S. S. Company:

Gentlemen—I take pleasure in furnishing you the following testimonial of your truly wonderful medicine. Some thirty years ago, there lived in Montgomery, Alabama, a young man who was terribly afflicted with Syphilis. After treating for a long time with the medical profession of his town with no beneficial result, he commenced taking your S. S. S., which was then manufactured in the county of Houston, near Perry, Georgia, in a very small way, and only known to that section of Georgia by its wonderful cures. After persistently taking the S. S. S. for a term of two months he was cured. Being personally acquainted, and in constant intercourse with him for twenty years thereafter, I can personally testify that the disease never made its return.

THE SUPREME COURT

DECISIONS RENDERED APRIL 25, 1881

Price et al., by next friend, vs. Lathrop et al., and vice versa. Injunction, from Bibb. Judgments. Res Adjudicata.

Crawford, J—After a case has been tried, brought by writ of error to this court—exceptions being taken both to the refusal of a new trial and the form of the decree—a dismissal of the case affirms the judgment as pronounced below, and a bill of review will not lie for errors apparent on the face of the record.

Judgment reversed.

Lanier & Anderson; Whittle & Whittle, for Price et al.

Lyon & Gresham; Blount & Hardeman; Hill & Harris; R. K. Hines; John P. Fort; Bacon & Rutherford, for Lathrop et al.

[Speer, J., did not preside in this case on account of providential cause.]

Robinson vs. State. Retailing without a license, from Gwinnett. Criminal Law. Constitutional Law. Charge of Court.

Crawford, J—1. The court is the constitutional organ to give in charge to the jury the law in criminal cases, and it is the duty of the jury to receive and accept the law as given them in charge by the court as applicable to the case, and to apply the law so given in charge to the facts, and give a general verdict of guilty or not guilty. In this sense they are judges of the law and facts.

2. The verdict is supported by the evidence.

Judgment affirmed.

W. E. Simmons, for plaintiffs in error.

A. L. Mitchell, solicitor general, for the state.

Wilson, assignee, vs. Stricker & Co. et al. Motion, from Fulton. Attachment. Pleadings. Verdict. Judgment. Levy and sale.

Crawford, J.—1. A failure to attach a bill of particulars to a declaration can be cured by amendment, and is not good ground to set aside a judgment thereon.

2. A declaration in attachment ought to allege a levy on specified property. A declaration which set out that "the plaintiffs in attachment complain of the said Tinkham, defendant in attachment, who resides out of the state, and who has been attached to answer in an action on promises," etc., with no further allusion to the attachment proceedings, and no prayer for judgment of any kind was fatally defective.

3. A verdict in an attachment case in favor of the plaintiff against the defendant for a specified sum is sufficient.

4. The pleadings being insufficient to base a verdict or judgment upon, a judgment so founded will be set aside on motion.

5. Where one attachment has been properly sued out and is proceeding legally, another attachment cannot be sued out by the same plaintiff against the same defendant on the same debt.

(a). A levy dated six days before the date of the attachment on which it was based was illegal.

6. Where the sheriff's entry of levy referred to a list or invoice of goods thereto attached, and at the trial there was no invoice attached, parol testimony was admissible to prove that the same invoice or list of goods was attached to this levy as to another levy which the sheriff had made on the same stock, and which was before the court.

Judgment reversed.

Reuben Arnold; E. N. Broyles, for plaintiff in error.

Jno. L. Hopkins; McCay & Abbott, for defendants.

Atlanta and Charlotte Air-Line Railroad vs. Woodruff. Case, from the city court of Atlanta. Damages. Negligence. Railroads. Master and Servant.

Crawford, J.—A declaration in an action by a railroad employe against the road alleged in brief, as follows: Plaintiff was a baggage-master on defendant's train, and in addition it was his duty to look after the condition of the cars, and generally to do everything in his power to preserve the safety of the trains and passengers. On the day of his injury he was notified that new wheels had been put under one of the cars, and that he should look out for them. Soon after leaving Atlanta the new wheels became hot and made a noise; he went to the side door of the baggage car to see if they were in a condition to endanger the safety of the train, and while thus looking out, without fault or negligence on his part, he was stricken by the spout or tank of the defendant, resulting from the negligence of the latter in placing such tank or spout so near as to strike him while discharging his duty and looking out of said car in an ordinary and usual manner. It was his duty, and necessary for him to be in the position he was in at the time of the accident, and he did not and never had known that the tank was so near the track:

Held, that a case was substantially made by this declaration, and the court properly refused to dismiss it on general demurrer.

Judgment affirmed.

L. J. Winn, for plaintiff in error.

Hopkins & Glenn, for defendant.

Thaxton et al. vs. Roberts. Injunction, from Butts. Deeds Title. Bankruptcy Homestead. Husband and wife. Equity.

Crawford, J.—1. An absolute deed to land to secure a debt, even though there be a bond to reconvey on its payment, passes the legal title.

(a) Such title is not divested by the subsequent bankruptcy and discharge of the debtor; nor is it affected by the fact that he retured the land as his property in the bankrupt court.

2. The consent of the wife to a deed to secure a debt is not essential to the passing of title thereby.

3. That, subsequently to the making of such a deed, a homestead in the land has been set apart to the wife is no defense to an action of ejectment under the deed.

4. Where there has been a verdict and judgment in an action of judgment upon a deed to land, although it may have been executed alone to secure a debt, it is conclusive between the parties and their privies upon all questions arising under the deed and its consideration which would have been the subject of a legal defense.

5. If questions of fact are submitted to a chancellor on an application for injunction, this court will not set aside his judgment thereon unless there is a manifest abuse of his discretion in deciding upon them.

Judgment affirmed.

Hendrick & Wright; John J. Floyd, by Harrison & Peeples, for plaintiff in error.

J. S. Boynton; F. D. Dismuke, for defendant.

Wilson vs. State. Larceny, from Fulton. Criminal Law. Charge of Court. Evidence. Verdict.

Crawford, J.—1. That in a case of larceny the judge inadvertently mentioned the person whose property was stolen as the prosecutor in his charge, such person not being in fact the prosecutor, will not necessitate a new trial where the prisoner's counsel heard the charge, but did not call attention to the mistake.

2. To convict of larceny of money from the person it is not essential that the bills stolen should be accurately and minutely described and identified, but the jury must be satisfied that such bills were on the person of the loser and that the defendant by himself or a confederate was the party guilty of the larceny.

3. Where several persons were indicted jointly for a larceny of money from the person, and one question in the case was their confederacy, though tried severally, it was not error in the court to admit in evidence a written order given by them jointly for the purpose of drawing the money found on their persons and taken from them by the arresting officer.

(a.) Nor was there error in admitting testimony to show that the amount stolen was paid to the loser's attorneys by the attorneys of the prisoners.

4. Where several persons were jointly indicted but tried severally, on the trial of one, a verdict that "we, the jury, find the prisoner guilty," sufficiently identified the defendant.

Judgment affirmed.

L. J. Gartrell; W. H. Hulsey; J. A. Anderson, for plaintiff in error.

B. H. Hill, Jr., solicitor-general, for the state.

Anthony vs. Pittman. Complaint, from Fulton. Indorsers. Promissory Notes Protest.

Crawford, J.—1. In a suit on a promissory note, a plea having been filed that the indorser was discharged by reason of the failure of the holder to protest and give notice, and the latter claiming that protest and notice had been waived, it was error to charge the jury that certain facts, if they occurred, would authorize the holder to believe that protest and notice were waived. The issue was not as to his belief, but as to the actual existence of a waiver.

2. If the indorser of a promissory note waives protest and notice, a subsequent effort by the holder to have the note protested would not affect the waiver already made. The fact of waiver being in issue, a subsequent effort to protest the note made by the holder could be proved as tending to show that what had transpired did not amount to a waiver, but would not be conclusive on that point.

3. Where a note sued on was made payable at a national bank on its face, and a plea of discharge to the endorser, by reason of the failure of the holder to have protest made and notice given was filed, parol testimony was not admissible to show that the note had never been negotiated or left at a chartered bank for collection and was not intended to be so negotiated or collected.

Judgment affirmed.

D. F. and W. R. Hammond, for plaintiff in error.

Hopkins & Glenn for defendant.

[Speer, J., having been of counsel in this case, Judge Crisp, of the southwestern circuit, was designated by the governor to preside in his place.]

Phillips, Jr., vs. Whites. Claim, from Newton. Levy and Sale. New Trial.

Crisp, J.—1. When the sheriff made the following levy, "levied this fi fa. on forty acres of land as described in book M of record of deeds of Newton county, on page 633, from John Webb Davis, Davis & Weaver, known as the Newton manufacturing company, on which land is a number of houses, grist and saw mill; also, about ninety acres of land lying on the west of said factory tract, and west of Alcora river; also part of tract, etc., all of said land lying in Newton county," and claimant at the trial moved to dismiss the same as to the ninety acres therein mentioned for want of sufficient description, because the same was too general:

Held, there was no error in refusing said motion.

2. When in a claim case, the question was whether a deed of conveyance was fraudulent, and the evidence was conflicting, and the jury found the property subject to the fi fa., and there was sufficient evidence to sustain the verdict, this court will not reverse the judgment of the court below refusing to grant a new trial in the case.

Judgment affirmed.

E. F. Edwards; Broyles & Jones, for plaintiff in error.

Clark & Pace, for defendant.

Bank of the State of Georgia vs. Harrison. Mandamus, from Fulton. Banks. Actions. Officers.

Speer, J.—Mandamus will not lie to compel the officers of a bank to transfer stock from a vendor to a purchaser, except under a judicial sale; in that case the bank official becomes a public officer pro hac vice.

Judgment reversed.

Julius L. Brown, for plaintiff in error.

Hopkins & Glenn, for defendant.

Taylor et al., vs. Dyches. Injunction, from Pulaski.

Speer, J.—On a bill filed to enjoin the closing of an alley by the erection of permanent improvements, the evidence being conflicting as to whether the complainant had a right to the use of such alley, or whether the defendants had the exclusive right to it, this court will not control the discretion of the chancellor in granting an injunction until the final hearing of the case.

Judgment affirmed.

J. Watson; Hall & Son, for plaintiffs in error.

Kibbee & Martin; L. C. Ryan, by Harrison & Peeples, for defendant.

McCalla vs. State. Forgery, from Fulton. Criminal law. Charge of court.

Speer, J.—To warrant a conviction based on the testimony of an accomplice the corroborating circumstances should be such as, independently of his testimony, to lead to the inference that the defendant is guilty. Facts which merely cast on the defendant a grave suspicion of guilt are not sufficient.

Judgment reversed.

Van Epps & Calhoun for plaintiff in error.

B. H. Hill, Jr., solicitor general for the state.

Georgia Railroad vs. Beatie et al. Case, from City court of Atlanta. Railroads. Damages. Negligence. Contracts. Common Carriers.

Speer, J—1. A railroad company transporting live stock may contract with the shipper for a consideration that the company shall be released from all liability for damages accruing to the stock disconnected and apart from the conduct or running of the trains; as from overloading, suffocation, heat, and the like.

2. Whether a contract to release the company from damages resulting from the conduct or running of its trains would be contrary to public policy, quaere?

Judgment reversed.

Henry Hillyer, for plaintiff in error.

Mynatt & Howell for defendant.

Horton vs. State. Larceny, from Fulton. Criminal Law. Charge of Court.

Speer, J—1. In cases of crimes perpetrated by several persons, when once the conspiracy or combination has been established, the act or declaration of one conspirator or accomplice in the prosecution of the enterprise is considered the act or declaration of all, and therefore imputable to all.

(a) A conspiracy was established in this case, and the various admissions of testimony and charges of the court, complained of on the ground that there was no evidence of such conspiracy, were right.

2. The indictment charging a larceny of more than fifty dollars in money, and there being testimony to support the indictment (including a restoration of the full amount lost)—although only one bill of $50 was specially identified—there was no error in leaving the jury to decide the amount stolen as well as the other facts, that is, whether the larceny was of more than fifty dollars or not.

3. Newly discovered evidence the sole object of which is to impeach a witness sworn on the trial will not require the grant of a new trial.

4. The verdict in this case was demanded by the evidence.

Judgment affirmed.

L. J. Gartrell; W. H. Hulsey; J. A. Anderson, for plaintiff in error.

B. H. Hill, Jr., solicitor general, for the state.

Freeman, trustee, vs. Mayor and Council of Atlanta, for use. Claim, from Fulton. Liens. Taxes. Sales. Title.

Speer, J.—1. The lien of the mayor and council of Atlanta for tax attached on the first day of April, 1875, to land as the property of the holder on that day. That he subsequently sold the land, and upon failure of the purchaser to pay all of the purchase money, that a judgment was obtained against him, a deed made to him, and the land levied on and sold as his property, did not divest the lien of the municipal authorities. The sheriff's sale conveyed what the defendant had, the lien attached to what his vendor had.

2. Under such circumstances a transferee of the fi. fa. for municipal tax could not claim the sum arising from the sale by the sheriff under the fi. fa. against the purchaser, and it was irrelevant to show that he permitted the amount so raised to be paid over on the fi. fa. for the purchase money.

Judgment affirmed.

Henry Hillyer, Marshall J. Clarke, for plaintiff in error.

Hopkins & Glenn, for defendants.

Petersburg Savings and Insurance Company vs Manhattan Insurance company. Complaint, from Fulton. Evidence. Interrogatories. Insurance. Charge of Court. Principal and Agent.

Speer, J.—1. It is no ground to suppress interrogatories executed in Delaware that the witness did not exhibit to the commissioners, as requested, books of account which he testified were in Mississippi.

(a) A witness cannot be required to attach to interrogatories a merchant's books of account. A transcript should be asked for.

2. Where, on objection by defendant's counsel to certain interrogatories, a part were ruled out and a part ruled in, and subsequently counsel for defendant introduced those parts which had previously been ruled out, the ruling of the court is not a ground for new trial on behalf of the defendant.

3. Although a merchant may have entered on his books the amount of an inventory of his stock at a specified time, yet if he testifies positively to the correctness of a statement containing such amount, made up by himself and his clerk and attached to the interrogatories, and the books are beyond the jurisdiction of the court and inaccessible to the witness, his testimony is admissible.

4. Where a certificate purporting to have been signed by a justice of the peace was attached to interrogatories for identification, and the witness testified that "the certificate was in the handwriting of Stockdale, attorney, and Bacot, justice of the peace," it might reasonably be inferred that the witness meant that Stockdale wrote and Bacot signed the certificate; and it was admissible.

(a) In a suit on an insurance policy, one issue raised by the defendant being that it was a badge of fraud that the insured did not furnish from the nearest magistrate a certificate concerning his loss, but furnished certificates of other magistrates near by, a certificate actually made and furnished from the nearest magistrate, to the effect that he had examined into the loss and believe it bona fide a total loss of a good stock of goods, but had not had time to examine as to the exact amount of the loss, was admissible, although such a certificate did not fully meet the requirements of the policy in failing to state such amount.

5. Refusal to give a request in charge will not necessitate a new trial where the request was substantially covered by the charge as given.

6. Requests not applicable to the case should not be given.

7. The charge complained of in the sixth ground of the motion for new trial was not unsupported by evidence.

8. A common agent of the insurer and the insured could not cancel the policy, but would be competent to convey from the former to the latter passingly notice of demand for cancellation. But to effect a cancellation before the payment of the premium, the notice, in the shape in which it reached the insured, must have been an unconditional demand for cancellation and not a mere expression of desire.

9. Although a section of a charge, taken alone, may seem objectionable, yet if, when construed in connection with its context, it is proper, a new trial will not be granted on that account.

Judgment affirmed.

R. J. Moses, Howard Van Epps, for plaintiff in error.

Jackson & Lumpkin, for defendant.

Barnes et al. vs. Hartwell, by next friend. Injunction, from Dougherty.

Speer, J.—The harsh remedy of injunction should not be resorted to unless for some reason the ordinary course of legal proceedings would not give full and complete relief.

(a) Under the facts of the present case, we do not see that an injunction was necessary.

Judgment reversed.

Vason & Alfriend; D. H. Pope; R. N. Ely; H. K. McCay, for plaintiffs in error.

Warren & Hobbs; Jones & Waters, by R. H. Clark, for defendant.

THE TRUE TEST.

The Merit of Religion, Government, Persons and Things Must Rest Upon a Basis of Worth.

Some Truths Illustrating This, and Testimony of Value to All Readers.

Christian at Work.

The true test of any religion is the effect it produces upon the lives of those who profess it. And, indeed, the test of real merit everywhere must be the power it possesses of accomplishing desirable results. In this age of the world men are not judged by what they claim to be able to do, but by what they can do; not by what they are reputed to be, but by what they are. Here is where the religion of our own country rises superior to the faith of Mohammedan or Hindoo lands; for while there is much hypocrisy in the church, and far too much worldliness, there is yet an absence of those sensual and brutal elements which characterizes the religions of Arabia and the Ganges.

This principle is equally true in all other departments of life. The same rule which applies to persons is equally applicable to things. Unquestioned merit must characterize them all, or they cannot be acceptable, much less popular. The clear and well arranged lecture delivered by Dr. Charles Craig before the Metropolitan Scientific Association appeared in the columns of this paper a short time since. In this lecture so many truths were brought to light bearing directly upon, and affecting the interests of the entire community. These facts, as stated by the doctor in his lecture, have been discussed in the columns of the religious press to a considerable extent in the past, and that, too, by very prominent personages. A few years ago the Rev. J. E. Rankin, D.D., of Washington, who is prominently known among the Congregational denominations of the country, published an article upon the same subject which drew forth most bitter replies from prominent physicians, and in response to these articles Dr. Rankin published long communications in the New York Independent, the Boston Congregationalist and the Chicago Advance reiterating his former statements and strongly emphasizing them. In these articles Dr. Rankin frankly stated he was as strongly convinced of the efficacy of the means used as he was that the Genesee river emptied into Lake Ontario. He further said: "I have known, too, of its use in similar cases by physicians of the highest character and standing, and I want, in the interest of humanity, to recommend Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure."

Now, while very few people are afflicted as severely as was Dr. Craig, or the cases Dr. Rankin refers to, still it is a lamentable fact that the great majority of people, in all parts of the land, are suffering to a greater or less extent from ill health and that this lack of health arises from either disordered kidneys or liver. Some additional facts, from the highest sources, of special interest upon a subject of such importance to the community, have, therefore, been collected by this paper, and are herewith given:

Rev. D. W. Bartine, M.D., D.D., is known in all parts of the land as a prominent and efficient leader in the Methodist denomination. In speaking upon this same subject as shown in his own experience, he said: "Some few months since I found myself suffering from a kidney difficulty which I knew to be the first stages of Bright's disease. By the use of a reliable test I found that my system was giving off albumen, and in some instances in a coagulated state. I also suffered severely from dropsy, particularly about the ankles, together with slight pains about the kidneys, derangement of digestion and great dryness of the skin. I had at all times much thirst, and of course this was followed by a gradual failing of strength. This was about the state of things when I commenced using the preparation known as Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. I took about six tablespoonfuls every day for a week, and found all my symptoms decidedly improving. I continued taking the remedy until I entirely recovered."

In a communication made by Rev. Dr. C. A. Harvey, the well known financial and educational secretary of Howard university, Washington, D. C., the doctor says:

"I have for the past few years been acquainted with the remedy known as Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, and with its remarkable curative efficacy in obstinate and so-called incurable cases of Bright's disease which occurred in this city. In some of these cases, which seemed to be in the last stages and had been given up by practitioners of both schools, the speedy cures which were wrought by this remedy seemed to be little less than miraculous. I am convinced that for Bright's disease in all its stages, including those first symptoms of kidney troubles which are so easily overlooked, but are so fraught with danger, no remedy heretofore discovered can be held for one moment in comparison with this and a hope that Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure may become as widely known as is the existence of the maladies which it will cure."

Rev. A. C. Kendrick, D.D., LL.D., who is professor of Hebrew and Greek languages in the university of Rochester, New York, and who is one of the American revisers of the New Testament, in speaking of the effect which Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure had upon himself, stated most emphatically that he had received marked benefit from it, and he cordially recommended it to the use of others.

Rev. A. Bramley, pastor of the Arsenal street M. E. church, Watertown, New York, testified in a recent interview that the first few bottles of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure had entirely removed the distinctive features of a severe kidney difficulty, and that while he had not been able to lie upon his back without great pain for more than five years, he was now not only able to do so but slept soundly, ate heartily and calls himself a well man.

Rev. A. P. Hill, of Shoeheel, N. C., having been troubled with a severe kidney and liver disease for a number of years, said: "I have been praying for relief for four years, and I believe I got it in answer to prayer. May God bless the firm who manufacture Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. Many of my friends have also used it with marked benefit, and I hope my testimony in its behalf may save the lives and relieve many who are now severely suffering from kidney or liver troubles in some of their many and dangerous forms."

Rev. P. F. Marklee, in writing from Montgomery, Ala., said: "I have paid at least one thousand dollars for doctors and medicine and never received any relief until I commenced taking Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. I am too thankful to express in words the benefit this medicine has done my family and myself. I have been to the hot springs, sulphur springs and several other places noted for the curative properties of the waters, but this great remedy did for me what everything else failed to do—it cured me. I hope the Good Father may crown the efforts of those who are manufacturing it, for the noble work they are doing."

There are no more reliable indorsements to be found in this land than those above given and coming from divines of such prominence they prove beyond a doubt the value of the great remedy of which they speak. It should also be remembered that Mr. H. H. Warner, the proprietor and manufacturer of this remedy, was himself cured by its use after having been given up to die by several physicians. So grateful was he for his remarkable cure that he determined that the world should know of this remedy, and he therefore began its manufacture. Mr. Warner is also a prominent patron of other public enterprises and the sciences and by endowing the Warner Astronomical Observatory at Rochester, as well as by his many other public benefactions, has become known to, and respected by the whole land. His standing alone is an ample guarantee of the purity and worth of the remedy he makes, but the thousands of testimonials from all parts of America gratefully telling of the relief it has given, prove it beyond a question. As a result it is attracting great and universal attention throughout the entire country. No one fact has been more apparent in the past few years than that kidney and liver troubles are alarmingly increasing. When, therefore, a remedy has been found which not only cures the worst as well as all minor troubles of this nature, but also regulates, controls and keeps in perfect order these most important organs at all times, it is certainly cause for gratitude. This is just what has been done in thousands of cases, in addition to those above mentioned, and it is what will be done in tens of th[illegible] of other cases in the very near futu[illegible]

"How Are You, My Old Friend?"

Asked a bright looking man. "Oh, I feel miserable, I'm bilious and can't eat, and my back is so lame I can't work." "Why in the world don't you take Kidney-Wort? that's what I take when I'm out of sorts, and it always keeps me in perfect tune. My doctor recommends it for all such troubles." Kidney-Wort is the sure cure for biliousness and constipation. Don't fail to try it.—Long Branch News.

—The queen of England is reported as desiring to raise Disraeli's nephew and heir to the peerage, but Mr. Gladstone objects.

"The Doctor Said

I would never leave my bed. That was three months ago, and n[illegible] weigh 190 pounds. I cannot write half of what I want to say, but Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure did it all."

KIDNEGEN is highly recommended and unsurpassed for WEAK or FOUL KIDNEYS, DROPSY, BRIGHT'S DISEASE, LOSS of ENERGY, NERVOUS DEBILITY, or any OBSTRUCTIONS arising from KIDNEY or BLADDER DISEASES. Also, for YELLOW FEVER, BLOOD and KIDNEY POISONING, in infected malarial sections.

☞ By the distillation of a FOREST LEAF with JUNIPER BERRIES and BARLEY MALT we have discovered KIDNEGEN, which acts specifically on the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, removing deposits in the bladder and any straining, smarting, heat or irritation in the water passages, giving them strength, vigor and causing a healthy color and easy flow of urine. It can be taken at all times, in all climates without injury to the system. Unlike any other preparation for Kidney difficulties it has a very pleasant and agreeable taste and flavor. It contains positive diuretic properties and will not nauseate. Ladies especially will like it, and Gentlemen will find KIDNEGEN the best Kidney Tonic ever used!

NOTICE.—Each bottle bears the signature of LAWRENCE & MARTIN, also Proprietary Government Stamp, which permits KIDNEGEN to be sold (without license) by Druggists, Grocers and Other Persons everywhere.

Put up in Quart size Bottles for General and Family Use.

If not found at your Druggists or Grocers, we will send a bottle prepaid to the nearest express office to you.

Be Careful of Your Eyes,

A pair of spectacles should never be purchased from any person who is not thoroughly acquainted with the anatomy, physiology and diseases of the human eye, laws of light, and the science of optics. Yet it is strictly true, that a full knowledge of the above, combined with skill and experience, is absolutely necessary to correctly adjust to the eye a pair of spectacles. I find on returning to the city, after a long absence caused by sickness, that many of my customers have been obliged to purchase spectacles of dealers who sell them the same as any merchandise, without knowledge of the human eye, thereby causing serious injury. ALEX FOX, Optician, With A. F. Pickert, 5 Whitehall street.

THE GRAND COMMANDERY.

A Two Days' Session in this City.

The grand commandery Knights Templar of the state of Georgia will to day begin a two days' session in this city.

For the past week Cœur de Lion commandery, of this city, has been busily engaged preparing for the reception of visiting members. The indications are that the attendance will be unprecedented in numbers.

The Kimball house has been designated as the headquarters for the Knights during their stay in Atlanta, and at this place the visitors will be received by the resident Knights to day.

At 10 o'clock this morning the subordinate commanderies, in full uniform, will form in front of the Kimball house, on Pryor street, Couer de Lion commandery on the right and the other commanderies, as directed by the grand captain general, to escort the grand commandery to the asylum, corner of Marietta and Broad streets, the line of march being from Pryor street to Wall, Wall to Loyd, to Alabama, to Pryor, to Mitchell, to Whitehall, to Alabama, to Broad, to the asylum, where the grand commandery will be opened for the dispatch of business.

At 7 o'clock p.m. the lines will again be formed on Broad street, in front of the asylum. The procession will move down Marieta street to Pryor, thence to Hunter, thence to Washington, to the Second Baptist church, when the liturgy of the order will be recited, and an oration be delivered by Sir A. Pratt Adams, of Palestine commandery, No. 7, Savannah. The exercises at the church promise to be interesting, and will doubtess be witnessed by a large number of ladies and gentlemen.

After the exercises the lines will again be formed and march down Mitchell to Pryor, to Alabama, to Broad, to the asylum, where a reception will be given to the visiting Knights and their ladies, by Cœur de Lion commandery.

On Thursday the visiting members will be shown the city, and at night a magnificent banquet will be given them by Cœur de Lion commandery of this city.

The following is a list of the subordinate commanderies that will participate in the session of the grand commandery:

Georgia commandery, No. 1, of Augusta.
Saint Omer commandery, No. 2, of Macon
Saint Aldemar commandery, No. 3, of Columbus.
Cœur de Lion commandery, No. 4, of Atlanta.
De Molay commandery, No. 5, of Americus.
Wm. Tracy Gould commandery, No. 6, of Forsyth.
Palestine commandery, No. 7, of Savannah.
Tanicred commandery, No. 8, of Albany.

There will also be present about twenty Knights of Lookout commandery, Chattanooga, Tenn, besides many Knights from various states. Among the distinguished officers of the organization in attendance are R. E. Sir W. La Rue Thomas and ladies of Danville, Ky.; R. E. Sir Wm Ryan and ladies of Louisville, Ky., of the grand encampment of the United States.

A TOOTHLESS OLD WOMAN

And Her Gay Young Lover of Twenty-five.

By the State road passenger train there arrived in the city last night J. J. Hasty, a Union county, N. C., official and two white prisoners, a man and woman.

Immediately after disembarking Mr. Hasty escorted his prisoners to the Air-Line house, where he placed them under guard until the Air-Line train left this morning.

The rustic appearance of the prisoners struck all who saw them, and naturally caused the query, "What have they done?" and with a view to ascertaining this fact, a CONSTITUTION representative asked the officer.

"Well, the case is rather mixed," was the reply. "The woman is a married woman, the man was working for her husband; there was more love than sense, and the two skipped." As the woman was an exceedingly homely person of about fifty years with no teeth and very little hair, and the man a stout fellow of probably twenty-five, the subject gained in interest, and the reporter begged the officer to tell him about it.

"Well," began Mr. Hasty, the woman's name is Mrs. Francis J. Morgan. Her husband is a well-to-do farmer living on Rocky river, Union county N. C. The man is V. G. Hartsell, and for the past two years has been working for Morgan. Morgan is about sixty years of age, and by hard work has accumulated a good farm and several thousand dollars. The money he kept in the house. This woman is his wife. They were married about fifteen years ago. Morgan was her second husband. Until recently all has been going well with the two, but within the past year Morgan has been missing money and much to his chagrin could not tell where it went. On the 30th of March Morgan left home. He was gone two days, and when he came back Mrs. Morgan and quite a sum of money were missing. Harisell was also gone. I was engaged by Mr. Morgan to catch them. Inquiry developed that Hartsell had a brother in Chattanooga. I sent T. J. Ezzard to that place. Soon after his arrival he found them and at once caused their arrest and telegraphed me. I responded immediately and when I got to Chattanooga I found that they declined to come unless I procured a requisition, but after a short talk with Mrs. Morgan she gave in and advised Hartsell to do the same. He complied with her request, and we left Chattanooga to-day and will get home to-morrow."

"How much money did they get away with?" asked the reporter.

"Oh, I can't say, for Morgan don't really know, but it is thought some two or three thousand dollars. To any observer it is apparent that Harisell never ran away with the woman for love, but for money, and as the money can't be found; I guess he got it. The woman, as you see, is old, and besides being toothless, is perfectly bald. It's a rich case, I tell you."

"What's Morgan going to do?" asked the reporter.

"I can't tell. All he wants is his money."

"And the woman: what does she say?"

"Oh, nothing. She is rather ignorant. She says she only left to conquer the old man, and was going back. She says she "hearn" that he cried when he found she had skipped, and was willing to go back to console him."

Mr. Hasty left this morning at four with his prisoner.

POSTAL CARDS

Must Bear a Clean Face or Be Returned to the Writer.

In his rounds yesterday a CONSTITUTION representative dropped into Mr. Terrill's office and asked—

"What's new?"

"Oh, nothing much," replied the head clerk, "yet you may say that on and after June 1, 1881, no printing or writing will be permitted upon the address side of postal cards, except that imprinted thereon at the manufactory and such as may be necessary for the proper direction of the same."

"All postal cards bearing any other writing or printing upon the address side are declared unmailable, and must be returned to the sender by the postmaster at the office where mailed."

"What will become of the cards used by persons who are not acquainted with and who do not observe this law?"

"They will be treated as 'spoiled' and may be redeemed by any postmaster upon application of the holder, as prescribed in section 171, postal laws and regulations, 1879. Future supplies of postal cards will be printed on the address side with the words, 'Nothing but the address can be placed on this side.'"

PRESIDENT GHOLSTIN

Falls Heir to the Shoes of Julius Lewis Brown.

Yesterday was a lively day at the Young Men's library. At noon a meeting of the directors was held for the purpose of electing new members. The following named persons were elected:

H L McKee, T E Kilby, J G King, Dr H B Lee, J R Gregg, George W Wyly, Jr, Henry P Scales, H L Culberson, C B Reynolds, C D Meador, J R Ormond, M A Fall, G J Orr, J R Slawson, R Z Rucker, Julius Dreyfus, Milton P Weed.

At two o'clock the balloting for the new officers was commenced under the following named managers:

E M Hammond, J T Gray, Darwin G Jones, J M Harwell, George Dewald, George W Wyly, Jr., W R Brown, Aaron Haas, George S Lowndes.

The balloting was spirited, and lasted until 8 o'clock. The votes were not all counted out until half-past ten, at which time the result was found to be as follows:

For President—Louis Gholstin, 147; Marshall J Clarke, 117.
For Vice President—R J Lowry, 239.
For Secretary—A C King, 267.
For Treasurer—C T Watson, 262.
For directors—J T Brock, 220; H W Grady, 183; T E Walker, 183; R W Tidwell, 177; A C Billups, 162; scattering, 42. The four first named were elected, and on next Tuesday night a meeting of directors and officers will be held, at which time the newly elected will go into office.

It is proper to state, as we announced in yesterday's CONSTITUTION, that Marshall J. Clarke was not a candidate. He was not present at the election, and took no part or interest, whatever, in it.

The Retiring Board.

The following resolutions were offered at the annual meeting by ex-President John H. Flynn, and were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, It is proper that this association now for the first time assembled in general convention in this beautiful hall, should make some memorial of its appreciation of the efforts of those who have labored to accomplish the grand results of building this hall; and

Whereas, None have labored more earnestly or more zealously for the library than our president, and none have been more generous in its support than his father, Senator Brown; and

Whereas, Also, the association should preserve the features of those who have been prominent in its affairs; therefore

Resolved, That the special thanks of the association are due to our president, Julius L. Brown, to whose zeal and interest we are most largely indebted for the erection of this hall.

Resolved, 2, That President Brown be requested to donate to this association his portrait to be placed in the directors' room.

3d. That the thanks of the association are also due to Senator Joseph E Brown for the timely aid rendered by him in coming forward and loaning the association money with which to build on his bonds when no one else showed a desire to take them.

4th. That the thanks of the association are also due to the board of directors, and that they all be requested to donate their photographs to the association, and that they be arranged in a suitable frame and marked, "The Building Board."

5th. That a special page on the minutes be set apart for these resolutions, and that a copy of the resolution relating to President Brown be engrossed and presented to him, and that these resolutions be published in the daily papers.

BOLD BURGLARS.

They Enter Houses in Broad Day light.

Yesterday was a good day for burglars. The residence of a Mr. Cohen, on Garnett street, was entered while the family was away yesterday morning and burglarized of about one hundred dollars in money and valuables. The burglars entered the house by prizing a window and in their search scattered the contents of the bureau drawers and trunks over the floor. Fifty dollars in money, some German silver pieces, some jewelry and a quantity of clothing were taken.

Mr. Henry Walker's house, on Luckie street, was burglarized about noon yesterday. The thief entered the front door, and after ransacking the rooms, left with a small amount of money, some jewelry and clothing. Soon after the theft was discovered Officer Lawson was notified and in a short while succeeded in securing enough evidence to warrant the arrest of Tom Miller. Miller was identified and is now in the calaboose.

John Knight's house, on Terry street, was entered late last night and a quantity of clothing stolen.

From Mr. Warlicks stable, in rear of his residence, on Peachtree street, a lot of sacks were stolen yesterday. Frank Stephens was arrested by Officer Langston, and confessed his guilt.

A BIG HAUL.

Six Hundred and Ninety-four Dollars Stolen.

For some time past Messrs. Alexander Stewart and Sam Smith, two stock dealers, of Newport, Tennessee, have been stopping at the Air-Line house.

Tueshay night when the two gentlemen retired Stewart had $419 00 and Smith $275 00, but the next morning when they began dressing they discovered that they had been robbed. The case was instantly reported to Chief Anderson who informed the police captains of the theft. Yesterday Captains Bagby and Starnes traced the money to its hiding place and restored it to the gentlemen from whom it was taken.

The Cow Ordinance.

In the city council the cow ordinance was virtually repealed Monday night last, by the adoption of Councilman Jones's resolution, in which the time for the enforcement of the law was changed from June 1st to November 1st.

When this resolution was introduced any amount of discussion was indulged in, nearly every member of the council giving expression to his opinion.

Councilman Jones supported his resolution with long and loud petitions in behalf of the poor. He said that the ordinance would work harm only to the poor, and that he was there as the friend of the poor, and would ever fight for their rights.

Against the resolution which virtually abolishes the ordinance, Councilman Knapp spoke. He deplored the fact that a member of the council should bring the question before the body when two of its supporters were absent. He argued at length against the adoption of Councilman Jones's resolution, and gave notice that he would move a reconsideration; but when the ayes and nays were called, and Mr. Knapp, after voting as he believed, changed his vote in order to move the reconsideration, his honor, the mayor, decided that under the circumstances the motion to reconsider could not be heard.

Thus the question was settled by virtually repealing the ordinance which has excited so much feeling.

The Railway Time Tables.

The railway time tables of the various roads running into Atlanta underwent a change yesterday.

By the new schedules the West Point passenger train—day—leaves at 11:15 p.m., instead of 1:30, and arrives at 1:45 p m., instead of 2. The night train, passenger, leaves at 12:50 a.m., and arrives at 3:25 a m.

The Air-Line night train, passenger, leaves at 3:15 p.m., and arrives at 12:25 p m. The fast mail leaves at 6:30 p.m. instead of 6 p.m., and arrives at 10 a.m. instead of 12 m. The day train leaves at 4 a.m. and arrives at 12:15 p.m.

Sunday night the State road put on another passenger train, making three daily trains each way on this road.

The Citizens' Bank.

In the Fulton superior court yesterday, Judge Hillyer, in response to a petition of Julius L. Brown, attorney, granted an order directing the Citizens' bank receivers to credit the depositors' accounts with the amount of exchange purchased by them just before the bank closed its doors. It is also ordered that the receivers do not bring suits in the June term of the city court of Atlanta in any case where the debtors of said Citizens' bank claim a set off, nor shall such suits be brought until the further order of this court.

St. Joseph's Infirmary.

The Sisters of Mercy return their sincere thanks for the following donations received since January, 1881: Dr. J. S. Todd, $50; Mr. O. Carroll, $10, liquors, and a safe; Messrs. Cox & Hill, liquors; Dr. Amos Fox, $.0 and a barrel of flour; Mrs. Dougherty, $5; M. P. Carroll, a barrel of potatoes; Mr. W. Calder, ten gallons of oil; from a friend, through Mr. Bird, $4; Mr. Ellsworth, a car load of wood.

Musical Notes.

Seab Wright and John Palmer, two negro lads, were yesterday arraigned in Judge Tanner's court upon the charge of larceny. Mr. John Hagan, a Whitehall street merchant, was the complainant, and swore that Wright and Palmer had stolen a harp from his store a few evenings ago. The evidence was sufficient to commit the defendants, who in default of bond, went to jail.

Anniversary Celebration.

THE CONSTITUTION acknowledges the receipt of an invitation to the anniversary celebration of the Ciceronian and Phi Delta societies, of Mercer university, Macon, Friday evening, May 27th.

Revivals.

An interesting revival is in progress at Evans chapel, and next Sunday the revival at the First Methodist church will be resumed.

The State Press.

Berrien County News.

The little daughter of Mr. James Clanton, two years old, was drowned in a branch near Ray's mill, on Monday last. Its mother left it in charge of the older children while she was looking after the calves. On her return the child was missing and she at once set about hunting for it, and, as above stated, found it drowned in the branch. When the heart is stricken we have the strongest evidence of the ties of nature. The father was overcome with grief, and with his darling babe in his arms he fainted and fell prostrated to the ground.

Augusta Chronicle.

Mr. W. C. Sibley, president of the Sibley manufacturing company, gives notice that subscriptions will be received to the increased capital stock of that company. We learn that it is now a certainty that no bonds will be issued, provided the stockholders in Augusta take their share of the increased stock. The Cincinnati stockholders have signified their intention to take their part of the new stock, which is fifty per cent, of the amount at present held by them, provided the other stockholders do as well, and the entire fifty per cent. additional or $300,000—making $900,000 in all—is raised by the 15th of June. Already subscriptions to the amount of two hundred and six thousand dollars have been received. Of this about thirty thousand is from new stockholders—twenty thousand of it being taken in New York. A gentleman in Boston, not now a stockholder, has stated that he expects to take fifty thousand. Thus it will be seen that there is a fine prospect of obtaining the full four hundred thousand dollars increase in a very short time. The mill [illegible] thousand looms and thirty tho[illegible]

The English Races.

LONDON, May 17.—The New Market second spring meeting opened to-day. Race for Burwell stakes for three year old colts and fillies, distance one mile, resulted in a walk over by Mr. P. Lorillard's brown's colt, Iroquois. The race for the selling—Weller handicap—was won by Captain Prime's Jacko, J. R. Keene's two year old bay colt, North Star, 2d; and C. Brook's Franciscan Friar, 3d. Six ran.

The race for the New Market spring handicap, distance one mile, two furlongs and 73 yards, was won by W. S. Crawford's Effie King; the baron De Rothschild's Commandant, second; lord Ischester Kutleborne, third. Seven ran, including P. Lorillard's Wallenstein.

A Hackman Murdered.

MEMPHIS, May 17.—John Ledger, a well known hackman, while returning home from a picnic at an early hour this morning, had his horses stopped by three men. He dismounted and tried to persuade the men to let him proceed with his load. Being intoxicated they refused, and in the difficulty that followed Ledger was stabbed and killed by one of the men named Lawton Proctor, who was arrested.

Creditors Attach Dan Rice's Circus,

MAYSVILLE, May 14.—Dan Rice's circus, which has been showing here for the last two days, was attached this morning, as it was about to depart to Ohio, by some of the creditors. The tent and some of the wagons are held here, while the other part of the circus is on the other side of the river. He was advertised to exhibit at Aberdeen, Ohio, to-day.

Death of a Cotton Merchant.

NEW ORLEANS, May 17.—William Cunningham, a prominent member of the cotton trade, died this morning at his country residence near Summit, Mississippi. Cunningham was president of the cotton exchange during 1879 and 1880, and was the first cotton buyer ever elected to that important position. The cotton exchange closed at 1 o'clock out of respect to his memory.

Burial of the Unknown Girl.

JERSEY CITY, May 17.—The remains of the girl found murdered in Opdyke's woods at Guttenburg were buried this afternoon in the poor ground of Hoboken cemetery. Chief of Police Donovan, assisted by the police of Morrisiana, is working up a clue which tends to prove that the girl came from that place.

A Valuable Mountain.

GALVESTON, Texas, May 17.—A special dispatch to the News from Waco, Texas, says: "A solid mountain of fine red, brown and white sandstone has been discovered near Regan, on the Texas and Pacific railroad. Experts pronounce the stone to be equal to any in America."

A Dynamite Plot.

LONDON, May 17.—A tube containing dynamite or gun cotton with a fuse attached was thrown into the doorway of the central police station at Liverpool at midnight last night. A loud explosion followed, and many windows were broken. Nobody was hurt.

Potato Bugs Abounding.

BEDFORD, Ind., May 17.—Never since the Colorado potato bug made its first appearance has it abounded to such an extent as it does at the present time. Everything in the line of vegetation is covered with them, and they are found all over the sidewalks and streets.

The Sentence of Death.

GALVESTON, May 17.—A special to the News from Weatherford says Judge Hood yesterday pronounced the sentence of death upon W. M. Burton for the murder of Jack Rush. Burton will be hanged July 1.

Failure at Hot Springs.

MEMPHIS, May 17.—W. H. Moore & Co., doing a general merchandise business at Hot Springs, Ark., made an assignment to-day. Liabilities $60,000. The creditors are St. Louis, Cincinnati, New York and New Orleans merchants.

The Races Postponed.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 17.—In consequence of rain the races at Pimlico, announced for to-day, are postponed until to-morrow.

GEORGIA, CAMPBELL COUNTY—ORDINARY's Office, February 27, 1881.—Thomas W. Latham, executor of Caroline M. Latham, deceased, represents to the court in his petition filed, that he has fully discharged his trust, and prays for letters of dismission. This is, therefore, to cite all persons concerned, heirs and creditors, to show cause, if any they can, why said executor should not be discharged from his executorship and receive letters of dismission on the first Monday in June, 1881.

THE WONDER OF THE WORLD.

GOOD NEWS FOR ALL.—PROF. HERMAN'S world-renowned Vermin Destroyer, which is known to be far Superior to anything yet discovered for killing Rats, Mice, Insects on Poultry, Ants, Bugs, Cockroaches, Black Beetles, Fleas on Dogs, Blight and Insects on plants, Moths in Furs, Tick or Scab on Sheep or Goats, also on Cattle, etc., etc.

This preparation has been applied with great success against the Insects that attack Plants.

Sold in Packets, at 25 cents per Packet; or six Packets for $1.25.

The Powder is warranted free from all bad smell, and will keep in any climate. It may be spread everywhere without risk, as it is quite harmless to Cats or Dogs, as they will not eat it.

DIRECTIONS FOR USE ON EACH PACKET.

Manufactory:—Gravel Lane, Houndsditch, City of London, England.

The above discovery has gained for Prof. Herman a Silver Prize Medal at the Inter-Colonial Exhibition of Victoria, Australia, of 1866, besides numerous Testimonials.

DIAMOND SPECTACLES!

These Spectacles are manufactured from "MINUTE CRYSTAL PEBBLES" melted together, and are called DIAMOND on account of their hardness and brilliancy.

Having been tested with the polariscope, the diamond lenses have been found to admit fifteen per cent. less heated rays than any other pebble.

They are ground with great scientific accuracy, are free from chromatic aberrations, and produce a brightness and distinctness of vision not before attained in spectacles.

Manufactured by the Spencer Optical Manufacturing Co., New York. For sale by responsible agents in every city in the Union. J. P. Stevens & Co., Jewelers and Opticians, are sole Agents for Atlanta, Georgia, from whom they can only be obtained. No peddlers employed.

Do not buy a pair unless you see the trade mark.
